HUNDREDS OF FRENCH SAILORS ARE KILLED

Mighty Battle Ship Goes to Bottom
a Mass of When Flames Explode Herazines

RESCUERS' BOATS ALSO SINK

Fire Breaks Out in General Storeroom, Feeds on Inflammables and Gets Beyond Control—Ship's Crew on Point of Disembarking When Detonation Occurs Tons of Debris Thrown Skyward Damages Other Crafts.

TOULON, France, Sept. 25.—Between 350 and 400 officers and men of the French battleship Liberte lost their lives today when the ship was torn apart and totally destroyed in the harbor here by an explosion of her magazines. The battleship Republique was badly damaged and the battleships Democratia and Verite suffered heavily from the masses of twisted iron and armor-plate hurled upon their decks.

This is the greatest disaster that has ever befallen the French navy and in magnitude is almost without precedent in the annals of the world's fighting ships.

The explosion which wiped out one of France's most powerful battleships, occurred at 5:53 o'clock in the morning. It was the result of an outbreak of fire. The flames spread rapidly in spite of all efforts to extinguish them and reached the magazines before there was time to flood them.

While the naval authorities estimate the killed at 350, it is feared this figure will be exceeded. It will be necessary to go through the ship's muster rolls, a task of days, before a full list of the victims can be prepared. Several men already have been taken alive from the torn and twisted mass of wreckage and the hope is strong that others may be reached.

Exactly from what cause, or when the fire broke out, has not been established, but it is believed it had smoldered for hours. Of the vessel's full complement of 742, Captain Jaures, brother of the Socialist leader, and the second officer in command, were both ashore on leave, as were 140 officers and men. The command of the ship devolved on the senior lieutenant, who perished.

Flames Beyond Control.
The fire was first discovered at 4 a. m. and the bugles immediately sounded the alarm. The crew rushed to the pumps and began desperately fighting the flames, but it soon was evident that the fire had obtained a firm hold. Signals of distress were flashed to other ships, and crews dispatched steam launches to assist in the work of extinguishing the flames, and rescuing the men.

The position of the fire made it impossible to flood the magazines, and finally the commanding officer, realizing that the ship was doomed, ordered the tugboat to sound the "sauve qui peut" (let him save himself who can) and shouted to the men to jump for their lives.

At 5:55 o'clock the first explosion occurred. It was followed by three others at one-minute intervals. Then came the final terrific detonation, which shattered the windows of the entire city and was heard for a radius of many miles. The Liberte was rent in two, her bows were thrown high in the air, and then the vessel slowly settled down, and in 19 minutes nothing was visible but the topworks.

Boats of Rescuers Sink.
Those still on deck were hurled skyward, amid a shower of iron and steel. The boats of the rescuers were sunk and serious damage was done to the Republique, which lay at anchor close by. Two of her decks were stove in and one of the Liberte's armor plates was hurled against her port side and demolished the cabin of an absent engineer.

For a few minutes after the final explosion a great black cloud of smoke hovered over the harbor. When it shifted, a horrible spectacle met the eyes of the people of Toulon, who, awakened by the first explosion, had hurried to the shore.

The twisted upper works of the battleship were protruding from a mass of wreckage, among which struggled the seamen from the rescuing boats that had been sunk by the flying debris or sucked down in the maelstrom.

Forty Bodies Recovered.
The first body recovered was that of an officer, which was hauled from under an awning with a boathook. Up to this evening, 40 bodies had been taken out and 94 injured transferred to the hospital ship. Electric shears, cut through the plates and a powerful floating crane, to lift the masses of steel, were used in conjunction with divers who are at work exploring the interior of the hull. This afternoon the Liberte appeared as if her bows had doubled back onto the stern. Men buried in that part of the wreckage above the water could be heard, calling and screaming for help, which, often, the rescuers were unable to give.

The lower deck was a heartrending sight. One man had his foot held under a mass of steel weighing tons. After three hours' vain efforts to lift the mass, a surgeon amputated the foot.

Through a hole in the armor, portions of bodies contorted and piled together could be perceived, all of them charred by the flames.

One of the survivors, a warrant officer, who came out of the hurricane of fire with only a slight cut on the forehead, telling of the disaster to-night said:

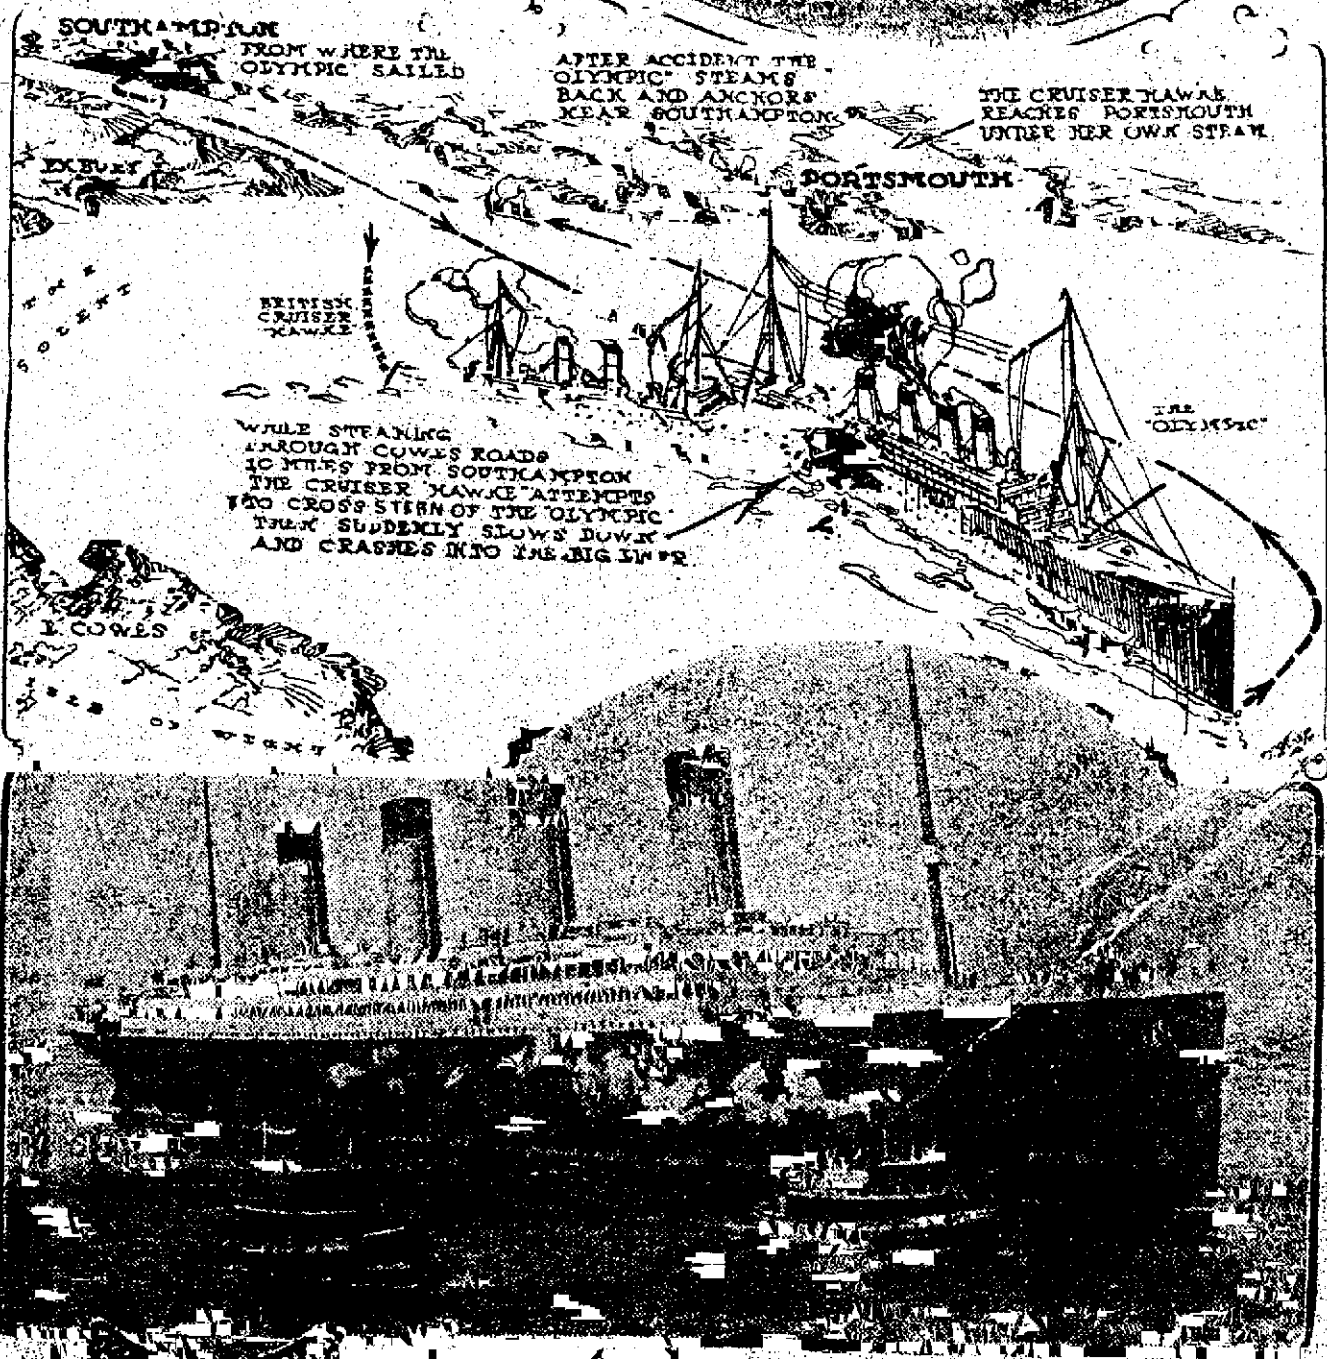

Started in Storeroom.
The fire broke out in the general storeroom among the cans of oil, turpentine, paint and other inflammables. In spite of every effort, the flames reached the coal bunkers, and after that it was difficult to prevent them gaining the powder magazine. It was about 5:30 o'clock, and dawn was breaking before the danger seemed to be realized. Assistance was then being sent us from the port and three other warships lying in the harbor.

"Just when the whole ship's crew seemed to have reached the boats in safety, there was a terrific explosion. The Liberte was hurled over on her side, and the forepart, where the full force of the explosion was felt, lurched forward heavily with an appalling crash. Cries resounded on all sides.

The greater part of the ship's boats with the rescuers and the men from the Liberte instantly sank. From that

ROBBERS ABANDON GOLD

ITITAROD, Alaska, Sept. 25.—The $35,000 in gold dust stolen from George Friend and his armed guards by a party of highwaymen last Friday, was recovered soon after the robbery by a posse, which chased the thieves through the swamps. Closely pressed, they were obliged to abandon the heavy strong box and the 140 pounds of metal which it contained. The reward of $5,000 offered for the capture of the robbers was left standing and after the gold was found, hundreds of miners continued to hunt for the criminals.

CONTRACT FOR PAVING IS LET

GOES TO J. F. HILL COMPANY OF CHICAGO
Bid, $141,281, Lowest Submitted Work May Begin This Fall

Colorado Springs streets will be paved with asphalt and the work will be done by the J. F. Hill company of Chicago, according to action taken at a meeting of the city council yesterday. The contract price is $141,281.

As soon as the contract is drawn and signed it will be determined whether it is advisable to start paving the downtown section immediately or to wait until next spring. If weather conditions are considered favorable for street paving this fall, it is proposed to rush the work along so that some streets will be paved before spring.

City Attorney McKesson will draw the paving contract, but it will not be signed, probably, until Judge Shearer has passed upon the petition of Mrs. Prudence E. Zobrist asking for an injunction restraining the city from paving. Owing to the illness of Mrs. Zobrist's attorney, arguments in the application for an injunction were not concluded yesterday.

Street Commissioner Lawton, in accepting the paving material and approving the resolution that sheet asphalt with a concrete binder be accepted as the paving material, also a resolution that the contract be awarded to the J. F. Hill company on the bid, $141,281, which was the lowest submitted. Both resolutions carried.

Paving is to be done on the following streets: Tejon street from Boulder to Vermijo; Pike's Peak avenue from the Ankers to the Santa Fe right-of-way; Huertano street from the viaduct to the west side of Nevada avenue; Cascade avenue from Chuchas to the north side of Pike's Peak avenue; Klowa and Blinn streets from the east side of Cascade to the west side of Nevada avenue.

12-INCH MORTARS DOING POOR WORK IN PRACTICE

HONOLULU, Sept. 25.—At target practice today the 12-inch mortars being used by the 1st Marine Brigade did not hit out of 20 shots at moving targets. The distance ranged from three to five miles. The artillery officers acknowledged that the results were disappointing.

FARMERS MUST BE FORCED TO GIVE LARGER YIELDS

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 25.—That the conservation movement is making rapid progress in this country, was made apparent today when representatives of a dozen states made brief verbal reports at the opening session of the third National Conservation conference.

The audience heard of steps to conserve everything from land to children. Mrs. Rolland C. Day spoke in behalf of Idaho, whereupon Governor Hadley, who was presiding, made a remark about women's suffrage. This was a cue for Mr. Day, and rising, she said: "Woman suffrage is sweeping over this entire country."

BURNHAM'S $3,000 LIFE POLICY GONE

Original Suspect in Mysterious Murder Case Cannot Find Paper

What has become of the $3,000 life insurance policy in the Modern Woodmen of America lodge, held by A. J. Burnham, whose wife and two children were victims of the sextuple murder mystery in W. Dale street last week? Burnham said like to know.

The policy was originally made out so that Mrs. Alice Burnham, the murdered wife, could profit in case of death. It was discovered yesterday, when Burnham started to transfer the names of the beneficiaries, that the slip held by him was lost.

It was Burnham's idea to make the two children of his cousin, E. T. Hartwick, of Detroit, Michigan, his beneficiaries. He was told that the policy could not be found at the home so he went to Coroner Jackson, hoping that it could be found among some of the family's personal effects held by the authorities, but the little piece of paper was not there.

Burnham next paid a visit to the office of J. A. Himebaugh, commissioner of public safety and acting chief of police, and told of the object of his search. But the police could tell him nothing.

"I guess someone wanted to keep it as a souvenir of the occasion," he said.

WILL PROBABLY SYSTEMATIZE ASK CHANGE OF JUDGES WORK ON CASE

McNamaras Defense Claims Three Outside Detectives Acting in Conjunction With Local Authorities

RULING AGAINST HARRINGTON HAVE THEORY WORK

Instructed to Answer Grand Jury Questions—May Go to Jail Instead

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 25.—Harrington of court and McNamaras defense, charged the court for having asked questions asked by the grand jury, was ordered by Judge Bordwell to answer the questions. As a result of the ruling, LeCompte Davis, one of the McNamaras attorneys, declared it was probable that the defense would ask for a change of judges.

The associates of Harrington, who were cited for contempt for refusing to respond to queries regarding his alleged attempt to influence Mrs. Lena Ingervall of San Francisco, a witness for the state, said that they did not know whether he would appear before the grand jury next Monday, the time agreed upon or would elect to go to jail and institute habeas corpus proceedings.

Judge Bordwell's ruling came after a stormy session in court in which LeCompte Davis and Joseph Scott, attorneys of the McNamaras, were ordered to their seats and W. J. Ford, assistant district attorney, was commanded to cease arguing.

Judge Bordwell said that after an examination of the records, he had concluded that Harrington's answer to the contempt charge contained no denial of the facts stated in the affidavit of Charles Weir, foreman of the grand jury, regarding the attorney's refusal to answer.

Presumed Answer Not Necessary.
When the judge reached that part of his ruling, Attorney Scott rose and said he desired to file an amended answer to the charge against Harrington. He said the new document would deal with the contention of himself and his associates that the main issue in the proceedings against Harrington was whether the grand jury and the district attorney were acting in good faith or were instituting a

PRELIMINARY MEETING IS CALLED IN DENVER

Local Delegates to Public Lands Convention Form Provisional Organization in Campaign

In line with the determined effort to be made by the delegates from the various towns and organizations in El Paso county to the Public Lands convention in Denver, September 28-October 3, Chairman Edgar T. Engstrom and Secretary W. C. Sturgis of the delegation have issued a circular to all the delegates to the convention, to attend a provisional organization before the big meeting. The circular reprints in full an editorial in the Gazette September 17, headed "United Action Needed," and the published September 20, entitled "National Conservation," and also contains the resolutions recently adopted by the El Paso delegation. It is addressed to the delegates of the Public Lands convention who favor land conservation, and federal administration of the national resources, and is as follows:

The Circular.
A convention has again been called to meet in Denver, for the purpose of denouncing the national conservation policy, which the ultimate design of having full control of the national resources transferred to the respective states in which they lie.

We believe that such a policy is subversive of existing conditions, is not in accord with the high ideal of the American people, and that a united effort is necessary to prevent the encroachment of special privilege.

The dates named for the convention are September 28 to October 3 inclusive. Under the call, counties are entitled to 10 delegates; towns and cities, one delegate for each 1,000 inhabitants; agricultural and horticultural societies and commercial organizations, 10 delegates each.

Although the time for selecting delegates is now limited, it can be accomplished if you act without delay. This organization is preliminary to an organization of those Colorado delegates to the convention who are in favor of national control of the national resources and delegates are urged to be present at the preliminary headquarters, the Metropolitan hotel, at 11 a. m., September 28, in order that united action may result.

We ask for a careful perusal of the resolutions and other printed matter enclosed. Please communicate promptly to the chairman or secretary your intention to be present.

Bring your credentials. The local delegates who do not expect to attend the Denver convention should notify E. A. Sawyer of Sawyer & Garstin, engineers, in the Hagerman building, immediately.

SUSPECT NEGRO OF ENTERING OFFICES

Five Burglaries in Downtown Buildings Discovered Yesterday Dentists Victims

A robber entered five offices in Colorado Springs Sunday night. The Chamber of Commerce was on his visiting list, but because all valuables in that office were safely stored in the office safe, nothing was taken. The Office-Kernochan agency office in the same building, was entered, but as nothing save checks and papers were available, things were left untouched. From the office of Dr. F. C. Locklin, a dentist at 615 Exchange National Bank building, $100 worth of gold fillings was stolen, and practically the same amount of gold was taken from the office of Dr. E. Nelson, a dentist in the Colorado building. Another dentist, Dr. C. A. Dennis, 30 South Tejon street, reported to the police that about $30 worth of gold had been stolen from his office Sunday night. All the burglaries were discovered yesterday.

In every instance the robber forced or sprang the locks on the office doors. The officers believe that a negro named McLean, who has recently served a term in the penitentiary, and who was convicted of a similar crime, may be able to give some information about the robberies. He has been seen in Colorado City recently and the police are looking for him.

FATALITY MARS AVIATION MEET

NASHUA BOULEVARD, LONG ISLAND, Sept. 25.—The aviation meet was marred today by the fatal fall of Dr. J. C. R. Clarke, of New York, an amateur who was to try for his license tomorrow. He fell 250 feet in his Queen Bleriot monoplane, sustaining such injuries that he died tonight.

Dr. Clarke had not intended to fly in his machine, which is numbered 13. This morning, however, after Ignatz Semionok, the Russian aviator, had flown to Mineola and back in Dr. Clarke's machine, the wheels were smashed by a bad landing and the doctor was so concerned over the accident that after repairs had been made he took the flyer up in order to test it.

He had flown only 500 yards, rising rapidly when he seemed to lose control and was dashed to the turf. As the aeroplane crashed on the ground, it turned over, catching the amateur aviator under it and crushing him.

Eugene Ely, George W. Beatty, Harry Atwood, J. C. Mays and J. A. D. McCurdy today decided to retire from the meet. McCurdy expressed dissatisfaction with the rules as did Ely. Mays refused to fly until she received more money.

In the speed contest for monoplanes, Grahame-White won the prize of $600, flying 10 miles at an average of 61 1/2 miles an hour.

Matilde Molsant went up 1,414 feet. In the bomb-dropping event, Beatty's passenger, Genevieve O'Hagen, dropped the missile the first nine inches from the bullseye, winning the event.

GERMANY TRYING TO KEEP PEACE

IS BOUND TO BOTH ITALY AND TURKEY

Fears Hostilities Between Two Countries Would Inflamm Balkans

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—Although Germany has not offered formal mediation it is learned she is exerting endeavors at Rome and Constantinople to bring about a peaceful settlement of the controversy between Turkey and Italy over Tripoli. Germany regards hostilities between those two countries as a menace to European peace since it probably would be followed by an outbreak in the Balkans, into which Austria-Hungary and the other powers might be drawn.

Germany advocates Turkish recognition of Italy's special interests and her abandonment of opposition to the economic development of the Tripoli by Italy and also of the recognition by the latter country of Turkish sovereignty.

Germany's position is delicate, as she is bound by an alliance to Italy and by friendship to Turkey.

Italians Demand Action.
ASSO, Switzerland, Sept. 25.—Late advice received here, according to the Socialists, demands speedy occupation of Tripoli. The Italian government is not sufficiently prepared to stand the heavy expense required to enter colonial competition.

Meanwhile the Italian government is taking advantage of the present opportunity to experiment in the partial mobilization of troops. The entire fleet is ready for war, including the smallest and the oldest ships; the coast fortifications have been strengthened and 60 steamers have been chartered for the transportation of 35,000 soldiers, war material, aeroplanes, dirigibles and Red Cross workers.

The contingent of soldiers kept in service after their term has expired, with the reserve called, brings the standing army to 80,000 above normal. The troops intended for Tripoli are concentrated chiefly in the Naples, Sicily and Taranto barracks.

The expeditionary force in addition to infantry includes four batteries of mountain artillery which proved effective during the war in Abyssinia.

Many reservists have asked to be called to the colors.

The strictest military and police measures are being enforced throughout the kingdom to prevent clashes between the people who are demonstrating in favor of the occupation of Tripoli and the Socialists, who are gathering together at the Extremists to demonstrate against it.

Turkey Wants Peace.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 25.—The Porte has addressed a circular to the Turkish representatives abroad instructing them to invoke the good offices of the powers with a view to restraining Italy from hostile action in Tripoli. The grand vizier has abandoned his projected European holiday.

A more tranquil feeling prevails as it is now known the reported landing of the Italian troops in Tripoli is untrue. The Porte has postponed sending the transports with war material for Tripoli. Orders have been sent to the Tripolitan authorities to avoid doing anything calculated to disturb good relations or give Italy pretext for hostile action. It now appears that it was the agent of a steamship company and not the Italian consulate which ordered the Romania and other Italian vessels back to Italy.

It is understood that if Italy proceeds to occupy Tripoli the Turkish plan of campaign will include the suspension of diplomatic relations, the closing and sequestration of all Italian government property, postoffices and schools in the Ottoman empire and the proclamation of a boycott against Italian goods, financial establishments and shipping.

ing, and the idea prevails that the Wayne family was the first to be murdered. After his first investigation at the scene of the crime, Chief Armstrong of Denver, said in response to a question, that he was not so sure that a man did it, that it might have been a woman. The chief did not entertain seriously the idea that a feminine hand welded the ax that killed six persons, but was merely conveying the idea that as yet he had formulated no theory, and no significance attaches to the statement. All the officers agreed that the murderer had a definite fixed purpose in slaying the members of at least one, if not both of the families.

"Just as true as the saying that 'a bolt of lightning never strikes in the same place,' are we certain that the man has done his work that he set out to do, and will be heard of no more until we turn him up." Commissioner Himebaugh said. "There is absolutely no cause for the men, women and children of this city to worry and fear that there is likely to be a repetition of the affair. Every action indicates that the deed was committed by a man with the one cloud on his brain and heart—to murder."

Possie Finds Nothing.
Most of the members of the posse which went out yesterday morning to scour the foothills in this vicinity in a search for a wild man or other suspicious characters, returned last evening and reported no evidence of any kind. This phase of the work will be continued today, but the authorities have little expectations that it will be productive of any results.

The officers in fact have very little confidence in the likelihood that they will discover anything of importance through the arrest of a suspicious looking or peculiarly acting character, such as a man reported arrested at Ouray yesterday. It is not at all cer-

CASCARETS INSURE INSIDE CLEANLINESS

The Millions of Cascaret Users Never Have Headache, Constipation, Biliousness or Sick Stomach.

It is more necessary that you keep your bowels, liver and stomach clean, pure and fresh than it is to keep the sewers and drainage of a large city free from obstruction.

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the decomposed waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels.

No odds how badly and upset you feel, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your drugstore will keep your entire family feeling good for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

tain that the man will be brought here, and if he is, it will be only because the authorities intend to exercise every precaution.

The idea that the body of the man found in the Wayne home and sent to Medaryville, Ind., for burial, is not H. F. Wayne, as suggested in a rumor current on the streets yesterday, is ridiculed by the officers. From the police and sheriff's offices statements were given out that the identification of Wayne had been complete before the body left Colorado Springs, and no word had been received that would indicate that it was not completely identified at his former home.

While the authorities insist that they have found nothing against Donatelli as far as the actual murder is concerned, they say that they are going to hold him.

"It is one of the ideas given out by Chief Armstrong of Denver," Commissioner Himebaugh said. "He says that it is policy not to release a suspect until the case is cleared or given up. I think that Mr. Purcell intends to keep Donatelli a prisoner for some time."

While attention has been diverted from Burnham for the present, it does not mean that he is free from suspicion, the officers say. It was learned yesterday that Burnham was given a physical test, unknown to him, before being released, and that officers found that he was by no means the physical wreck he has been pictured.

Burnham on Car?
The police are investigating a story, told by Ira Harris, a prominent attorney and former mayor, which may have some bearing on the case. Mr. Harris is said to have seen a man who bore a striking resemblance to Burnham riding on a northbound Tejon street car about 1:30 o'clock of the afternoon preceding the evening when the murders are supposed to have been committed.

When interviewed last night, he would make no statement farther than to say that he had made one to the police. In this connection the police say:

"According to our information, Judge Harris boarded the Tejon car in the business district on his way home. Mr. Harris is said to have seen a man who bore a striking resemblance to Burnham riding on a northbound Tejon street car about 1:30 o'clock of the afternoon preceding the evening when the murders are supposed to have been committed.

When interviewed last night, he would make no statement farther than to say that he had made one to the police. In this connection the police say:

"The only bearing that the incident, providing that it is not a case of mistaken identity, would have on the case, is to show that Burnham was not telling us the truth when he says that he was not in Colorado Springs on that day. Of course, that would be welcome news to us, but from what we have discovered, there is no doubt about Burnham's being in a sanatorium all day Sunday and unable in the evening," the police say.

"I do not wish to be brought into the case and have nothing to say," Judge Harris said. "I have told the police all I know."

USES SHELL FOR HAMMER: INJURIES MAY BE FATAL

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Mrs. Anna Halpit took a loaded one-pound shell from the mantle in her home tonight to use as a hammer. She struck the percussion cap in the base of the projectile and in the explosion which followed she received injuries which probably will prove fatal.

The shell had laid on the mantle several days, a souvenir presented by a friend and its dangerous nature had never been suspected by the woman.

FARMS MUST BE FORCED

urged scientific farming as the only means by which the cost of living can be reduced. In part Mr. Wallace said:

President Wallace's Address.
It will be my object in this address not to discuss any phase of the conservation movement exhaustively, but to outline briefly two drifts of population. The drift from the farm to the city, and the drift from the city toward the land and the work of this congress related thereto.

Even before the daily press had begun to discuss the "drift back to the land," the movement toward the land had already begun.

Latent in the heart of nearly every man, be he man of business, clerk or other employee, or laboring with his hands, there is a yearning desire to have a piece of land to call his own. Alongside of this movement back toward, if not always, to the farm, the counter movement from the farm to the town, which has been going on for 50 years, continues with increasing and accelerated force. Farmers all over the older west move in great numbers or retire to the country towns, and notwithstanding all this constant influx of people from the farms, these towns, as the late census reveals, have barely held their own, and often have lost in population, the natural increase of the towns themselves pouring into the larger towns and cities, in which the majority live with less comfort than the farmers who remain on the farms.

Vast numbers of boys and girls fall a prey to alluring vices of the city, and many of them eventually lose their places with the "down and out." Comparatively few succeed and become well-to-do. The children of these few become wealthy; their grandchildren usually spend and squander the fortune they never earned; and naturally the family dies out, at least so far as force and power is concerned. In another generation, or at most two or three, the city uses up men and families as it uses up horses. And this is true not only in this but in the older countries as well. All Ireland, for example, has lost population in the last ten years, as also has nearly all of Wales and Scotland.

Cause of Movement.
I regard it as important that you should understand as clearly as possible, the conditions that have caused this worldwide movement from the farm to the city, as only in this way will we be able to understand the conditions that will cause and are even now causing a return flow or movement back toward the land. The movement toward the city, and the use of improved machinery, or the application of science to the problems of manufacturing and distributing the things necessary for the supply of our ever-increasing human wants. It has increased in proportion to the success of the inventions and discoveries of the laborer. The problem of logically the organization of capital, and gave us one of the greatest and most difficult of modern problems, that of the labor unions.

The laborer no longer aims to supply local demands, but state, international, national and even international. For this there must be transportation and therefore we have a railroad problem closely intertwined with the labor problem. Intimately connected with the whole process of manufacturing and distribution. The products of these great factories must be used by consumers living at long distances from the place of production, or the problem of the middleman, and all the direct results of the application of science to industry. Since the world began, the like has never been seen before.

Lures of the City.
With corn at from 20 to 25 cents, wheat 50 cents, oats 15 cents, the manufacturer could afford to pay his laborers more than the farmer could. The farmer's day was shorter hours. The city offered him paved streets, lights, amusement, society, the joy of living. It was a wonder that the farm boys and girls fled to the cities. The farmer's day was shorter hours. The city offered him paved streets, lights, amusement, society, the joy of living. It was a wonder that the farm boys and girls fled to the cities. The farmer's day was shorter hours. The city offered him paved streets, lights, amusement, society, the joy of living. It was a wonder that the farm boys and girls fled to the cities.

Exports Shrinking.
We are now nearing a point where we will need practically all our grains to provide for the wants of our own population. Our exports of corn is merely a dribble. In our last census year, 100,000,000 bushels less than the average 10 years before. Our exports of meats and dairy products have shrunk in 10 years over 15 per cent. We sent abroad last year only about one-third the number of cattle we sent in 1890. There is not the slightest indication that this decline will be checked. If checked at all, it will be temporarily, due to an industrial crisis. Were it not for the war, we could have sent abroad more than 1,000,000 head of cattle each year. We send abroad each year the country would be drained of its precious metals to settle our foreign obligations, and we would be on the verge of national bankruptcy. Lands in England that have been farmed for more than 1,000 years produce more than twice as much wheat per acre on the average as we do in the naturally better lands of the Mississippi valley. This demonstrates the difference between farming and merely mining the soil fertility.

This condition has been greatly hastened by our statesmen. The gift of an empire of land to railroads to enable them to carry the turning of the lane. We must, from now henceforth, learn to farm. We cannot greatly increase our acreage; will, in fact, be compelled, by the return of normal conditions, to sell our western territory, to reduce it. The only thing left to do is to grow more grain per acre, better stock in greater numbers, per quarter section. Only in this way can we reduce the cost of living. Of great problem as I said to this congress a year ago, is how to produce food for our own people at prices which they can afford to pay. But how? Partly by putting more brains

Iron Workers Reelect Secretary McNamara and Vote Him a Badge
MILWAUKEE, Sept. 25.—J. J. McNamara was today reelected by acclamation secretary of the International Association of Structural, Bridge and Iron Workers, in convention here. A $75 gold badge was voted to McNamara, whose trial is pending in Los Angeles.
W. S. Hookin was reelected acting

Country is Awakening.
All over the country there is the beginning of a great social and industrial awakening. The farmer is beginning to "magnify his office," to cut loose from partisan bias, to do his own thinking and act for himself. He is paying better salaries to his school teachers and insisting that the teaching have some relation to the life on the farm. He is buying his own automobiles, and paying cash for them. He is beginning to realize that farm life is essentially different from the life of the town. The movement to organize country life clubs is spreading. The boys and girls are organizing for games. The country church is beginning to realize its mission, and in several states country preachers are taking short courses in agricultural colleges in order that they may teach more of our modern farm problem in terms of their daily life.

In conclusion, permit me to say that the ultimate prosperity of the city, its ability to govern itself wisely and well, depends on the development of rural manhood.

WOMAN, RESENTING A BLOW FROM HUSBAND, KILLS HIM

DENVER, Sept. 25.—Regent a blow from her husband, who she alleges has accused her of misconduct, Mrs. Gertrude E. Patterson today shot and killed her husband. The shooting took place in front of the E. B. Hendrix home at Ouelz and East Twelfth avenue.

Spectators claim Mrs. Patterson shot after her husband had fired several shots at her without effect.

Mrs. Patterson was named in an alienation suit for $25,000, filed Friday in Chicago against Emil Strauss, millionaire clothing manufacturer of Chicago. In a divorce suit filed at the same time and later withdrawn, Patterson charged that Strauss induced her to leave her husband four months after they were married. He further alleged that his wife and Strauss spent a summer together traveling in Europe.

Patterson was formerly a stock broker in Chicago and came to Denver seven months ago for his health.

proceeding merely to annoy the defense.

Judge Bordwell said he did not think he amended answer necessary as he had understood the original document. He declared that amendments cast at the grand jury and the district attorney by the defense at the beginning of the hearing last Friday, had not been admitted to the records and that he did not wish to hear more of them. He declared that Harrington's services to the McNamara's were not those of counsel and therefore the law did not protect him in that capacity. There was no reason, the judge declared, why Harrington should not answer the questions asked by the grand jury.

Scott asked that the grand jury here had no right to investigate the charge that Harrington had tried to bribe Mrs. Ingersoll in San Francisco. He said that if any investigation were to be made of the alleged crime it should be made in San Francisco.

Judge Bordwell said that he had decided otherwise and declared that the grand jury must be permitted to proceed with its investigation whenever it thought there was ground for believing that attempts were being made on either side illegally to influence witnesses. He said it was to be commended for its work.

Tells Counsel To "Sit Down."

"Then where do we get off at?" roared Scott.

"Examine the law," said the court. "Sit down Mr. Scott. I want no further argument over the matter."

Davis arose and began addressing the court on the same subject. He also was told sharply to "sit down."

Judge Bordwell said he did not think that it was necessary to order any punishment for Harrington, but ruled that he must answer the questions. He released him on his own recognizance. Opposing counsel then agreed upon next Monday as the time for Harrington's scheduled reappearance before the grand jury. The court agreed to examine the amended answer Scott wished to file, to determine if it had been admitted to the records. He also permitted the defense to have inserted into the records the refusal of the grand jury to testify in court as to their good faith in the Harrington matter.

Clarence Darrow, of the defense said tonight the ruling of Judge Bordwell taken with his previous statements that he had ordered the grand jury to investigate the case and his commanding it for its action, gave the defense ground for asking a change of judges. If a motion for a change of judges is made it will be presented to Judge Bordwell himself. Before the case could be taken from this county it would have to be shown that all 12 of the regular judges here and two or three who sit in extra sessions also were biased.

HUNDREDS OF FRENCH

moment all I was conscious of was being carried aboard the Republic, where I was taken care of. When I had somewhat recovered my senses they told me what had happened.

Deaths Damages Republic

"After the explosion, my enormous fragment detached from the bows of the Republic and other pieces of iron fell on the Republic, smashing the bridge and plunging between decks. The bugler of the Republic was hurled through the air from our inflated ship to the deck of the Republic, where he was picked up badly hurt. In his hands he still held the bugle with which he was sounding the alarm."

All the boats that surrounded the Republic were engulfed in the whirlpools caused by the sinking ship. They vanished amid the despairing cries of the crew.

On reaching the wreck, a reporter found that the floating body had blown a considerable distance. The battleship itself was a mass of buckled plating, twisted and mangled with torn bolts and shattered machinery.

Commander Dekeudren of the Republic said that when the explosion occurred his vessel was shaken from stem to stern.

French Naval Disasters.

The recent history of the French navy contains a series of disastrous accidents, most of them caused by explosions, and several occurring at Toulon, the scene of today's catastrophe.

On March 12, 1907, the battleship Iena was almost destroyed by the explosion of her magazine, and 107 officers and men lost their lives. Until today the Iena disaster stood as the greatest recent calamity suffered by the French navy in times of peace. Like the Republic, the Iena was blown up in the harbor of Toulon, but the loss of life was less, mainly because the Iena remained afloat.

An investigation of the Iena explosion resulted in an official report that it was due to spontaneous combustion of powder in a magazine where the temperature was too high on account of the proximity of the dynamo compartment. The report severely censured the organization of the navy and said:

"The real cause of the disaster was the absence of record, as well as the divisions and antagonisms existing in the different branches of the service. The dissolving weakness of the general power explains the progressive weakening of our naval forces. Where will it lead us?"

A parliamentary committee, appointed in 1907, presented a report scathing in its condemnation of the naval administration of the preceding 10 years and recommending a complete reorganization with special attention to the elimination of red tape and the distribution of responsibility.

Other notable French naval disasters of recent years were:

October 18, 1906—Submarine Lutin, lost off Bizert, 13 dead.

February 8, 1907—Explosion on torpedo boat No. 238, nine dead.

February 19, 1907—Cruiser Jean Bart, lost off the northwestern coast of Africa; no deaths.

August 13, 1908—Gun exploded aboard school ship Couronne, at Toulon; six dead.

September 23, 1908—Gun exploded aboard cruiser Latouche Treville, at Toulon; 13 dead.

May 27, 1910—Submarine Pervenche, submerged after diving in the harbor of Calais; 27 dead.

September 10, 1911—Gun exploded aboard cruiser Gloire, at Toulon; one man killed and 15 injured, five fatally.

Similar to Iena Disaster.

It is now almost established that the disaster on the Republic was due to the degradation of "B" powder, as in the case of the Iena. Towards 5 o'clock the watch perceived a dense smoke coming from the forepart of the ship. He reported this to the officers, who promptly ordered that the magazines be flooded as a first precaution. The man whose duty it was to open the sea valves, returned precipitately, saying that it was impossible to carry out orders on account of the thick, poisonous fumes rising from the magazines.

Word of the danger flew from mouth to mouth. Men rushed to the boats or jumped into the sea. At this juncture help arrived from the other ships and the officers of the Republic decided to make another effort to conquer the fire. The bugler was asked to sound the rally. The spirit of discipline was so excellent that the men who had jumped overboard, asked the boats which picked them up to put them back aboard the Republic.

Some idea of the violence of the explosion may be had from the fact that the officer commanding the gunnery schoolship Poudre, anchored three kilometers (1.88 miles) from the Republic, was killed on his own quarter deck by a fragment of shell hurled from the Republic, and two sailors standing beside him were wounded.

There was a roll call of the remnants of the Republic on board the battleship Suffren tonight. The scene was pitiful, many of the men were injured and most of them were in tears.

Experts are of the opinion that the fire on the Republic was not the cause, but the result of the explosion. Eye-witnesses say that it was not until after the explosion that smoke was seen issuing from the ship.

A ferryboat with more than 100 workmen on board, was nearly involved in the disaster. As it was passing the Republic, smoke and flames were observed coming from the Republic, and the captain of the boat immediately ordered his engines reversed and backed out of danger.

section drove into town in automobiles and various sorts of rigs.

Tells Again About Veto.

Mr. Taft continued himself largely to the vetoes of the woolen tariff bills. He gave his reasons to understand that he was more than willing to sign any bill reducing the tariff, if founded upon the report of the tariff board. This board, the president said, would be ready to report on the woolen schedule by the 1st of December. This statement, on this point, was a restatement of what he had said before.

"I believe that the present woolen duties are too high," he explained, "and I am sure that as soon as I get adequate information I shall recommend their reduction."

Mr. Taft began the day at Coffeyville, and spoke also at Independence, Cherryvale, Thayer, Chanute, Humboldt, Iola, Garnett, Ottawa, Edgerton and Olathe.

The president appeared on the back platform and waved to the station throngs at Carlisle, the home of Gen. Frederick Funston; Colony, and several other small towns. He was on the go from 7:30 a. m. until the arrival here at 6:30 tonight. When his train was not in motion, the president was talking, and when he was not talking, the train was being hurried pell-mell to the next scheduled stop.

Marriage and Divorce.

Aside from his tariff speeches, the president spoke briefly on marriage and divorce, on the prosperity of the people of Kansas and on the trusts.

In coming to a discussion of the necessity for uniform laws governing marriage and divorce, the president first spoke of the necessity of uniform laws on the subject of child labor and workmen's compensation. As to marriage and divorce, he said:

"It is very awkward to say the least, that a man who is married on one side of a state line, may not be married on the other. The increase of divorces in this country is a reflection upon the laws and their loose administration. We ought not to permit the marriage tie to be dissolved at will. You say we ought not to keep unhappy people together. We brought them together, did we not? If they get together under a contract, why should they be bound to a contract unless one or the other does something which in the eyes of all men, might be permitted or to require at least separation, if not a divorce."

"The trouble is not that in an individual case divorce follows; remember they are separated, but the trouble is, when a man or a woman feels that it is only a question of option with her whether she will live with her husband or he with his wife, then with that option before them, they conduct themselves in such a way, very frequently, as to lead to a breach."

"We ought to have a uniform law that makes sacred the marriage tie. Following his conservation address here tonight, the president left again for Kansas, and will spend Tuesday and Wednesday in that state."

FATALITY MARS AVIATION MEET

NASHUA BOULEVARD, LONG ISLAND, Sept. 25.—The aviation meet was marred today by the fatal fall of Dr. J. C. R. Clarke, of New York, an amateur who was to try for his license tomorrow. He fell 250 feet in his Queen Bleriot monoplane, sustaining such injuries that he died tonight.

Dr. Clarke had not intended to fly in his machine, which is numbered 13. This morning, however, after Ignatz Semionok, the Russian aviator, had flown to Mineola and back in Dr. Clarke's machine, the wheels were smashed by a bad landing and the doctor was so concerned over the accident that he took the flyer up in order to test it.

He had flown only 500 yards, rising rapidly when he seemed to lose control and was dashed to the turf. As the aeroplane crashed on the ground, it turned over, catching the amateur aviator under it and crushing him.

Eugene Ely, George W. Beatty, Harry Atwood, J. C. Mars and J. A. D. McCurdy today decided to retire from the meet. McCurdy expressed dissatisfaction with the rules as did Ely. Mile Durieux refused to fly until she received more money.

In the speed contest for monoplanes, Graham-White won the prize of $500, flying 10 miles at an average of 61 1/2 miles an hour.

Matilde Molant went up 1,414 feet in the bomb-dropping event Beatty's passenger, Genevieve O'Hagen, dropped the missile five feet and nine inches from the bullseye, winning the event.

GERMANY TRYING TO KEEP PEACE

IS BOUND TO BOTH ITALY AND TURKEY

Fears Hostilities Between Two Countries Would Inflame Balkans

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—Although Germany has not offered formal mediation, it learned she is exerting endeavors at Rome and Constantinople to bring about a peaceful settlement of the controversy between Turkey and Italy over Tripoli. Germany regards hostilities between those two countries as a menace to European peace since it probably would be followed by an outbreak in the Balkans, into which Austria-Hungary, and the other powers might be drawn.

Germany advocates Turkish recognition of Italy's special interests and her abandonment of opposition to the economic development of the Tripoli by Italy and also of the recognition by the latter country of Turkish sovereignty. Germany's position is delicate, as she is bound by an alliance to Italy and by friendship to Turkey.

Italian Demand Action.
SSO, Switzerland, Sept. 25.—Late advice received here, according to the Italian press, demands speedy occupation of Tripoli. The Italian government is not satisfied with the partial mobilization of troops. The Italian government is taking advantage of the present opportunity to experiment in the mobilization of troops. The Italian fleet is ready for war, including the smallest and the oldest ships; the coast fortifications have been strengthened and 50 steamers have been chartered for the transportation of 50,000 soldiers, war material, aeroplanes, dirigibles and Red Cross workers.

The contingent of soldiers kept in service after their time has expired, with the reserve called, brings the standing army to 80,000 above normal. The troops intended for Tripoli are centered chiefly in the Naples, Sicily and Taranto barracks.

The expeditionary force in addition to infantry includes four batteries of mountain artillery which proved effective during the war in Abyssinia.

Many reservists have asked to be called to the colors.

The strictest military and police measures are being enforced throughout the kingdom to prevent clashes between the people who are demonstrating in favor of the occupation of Tripoli and the Socialists, who are gathering together all the extremists to demonstrate against it.

Turkey Wants Peace.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 25.—The porte has addressed a circular to the Turkish representatives abroad instructing them to invoke the good offices of the powers with a view to restraining Italy from hostile action in Tripoli. The grand vizier has abandoned his projected European holiday. A more tranquil feeling prevails as it is now known the reported landing of Italian troops in Tripoli is untrue. The porte has postponed sending the transports with war material for Tripoli. Orders have been sent to the Tripoli authorities to avoid doing anything calculated to disturb good relations or give Italy pretext for hostile action. It now appears that it was the agent of a steamship company and not the Italian consulate which ordered the Romanian and other Italian vessels back to Italy.

It is understood that if Italy proceeds to occupy Tripoli the Turkish plan of campaign will include the suspension of diplomatic relations, the closing and sequestration of all Italian government property, postoffices and schools in the Ottoman empire and the proclamation of a boycott against Italian goods, financial establishments and shipping.

ing, and the idea prevails that the Wayne family was the first to be murdered. After his preliminary investigation at the scene of the crime, Chief Armstrong of Denver, said in response to a question, that he was not so sure that a man did it, that it might have been a woman. The chief did not entertain seriously the idea that a feminine hand wielded the ax that killed six persons, but was merely conveying the idea that as yet he had formulated no theory, and no significance attaches to the statement. All the officers agreed that the murderer had a definite fixed purpose in slaying the members of at least one, if not both of the families.

"Just as true as the saying that a bolt of lightning never strikes in the same place," are we certain that the man has done his work that he set out to do, and will be heard of no more until we turn him up." Commented Himebaugh said. "There is absolutely no cause for the men, women and children of this city to worry and fear that there is likely to be a repetition of the affair. Every action indicates that the deed was committed by a man with the one cloud on his brain and heart—to murder."

Posses Finds Nothing.
Most of the members of the posse which went out yesterday morning to scour the foothills in this vicinity in a search for a wild man or other suspicious characters, returned last evening and reported no evidence of any such having been seen or heard from. This phase of the work will be continued today, but the authorities have little expectation that it will be productive of any results.

The officers in fact have very little confidence in the likelihood that they will discover anything of importance through the arrest of a suspicious looking or peculiarly acting character, such as a man reported arrested at Ouray yesterday. It is not at all cer-

CASCARETS INSURE INSIDE CLEANLINESS

The Millions of Cascaret Users Never Have Headache, Constipation, Biliousness or Sick Stomach.

It is more necessary that you keep your bowels, liver and stomach clean, pure and fresh than it is to keep the sewers and drainage of a large city free from obstruction.

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage way every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food from the liver and carry out of the system the decomposed waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels.

No odds how badly and upset you feel, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your drugist will keep your entire family feeling good for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

tain that the man will be brought here, and if he is, it will be only because the authorities intend to exercise every precaution.

The idea that the body of the man found in the Wayne house and sent to Medleyville, Ind., for burial is not H. F. Wayne, as suggested in a rumor current on the streets yesterday, is ridiculed by the officers. From the police and sheriff's offices statements were given out that the identification of Wayne had been complete before the body left Colorado Springs, and no word had been received that would indicate that it was not completely identified at his former home.

While the authorities insist that they have found nothing against Donatelli as far as the actual murder is concerned, they say that they are going to hold him.

"It is one of the ideas given out by Chief Armstrong of Denver," Commissioner Himebaugh said. "He says that it is policy not to release a suspect until the case is cleared or given up. I think that Mr. Purcell intends to keep Donatelli a prisoner for some time."

While attention has been diverted from Burnham for the present, it does not mean that he is free from suspicion, the officers say. It was reported yesterday that Burnham was given a physical test, unknown to him, before being released, and that officers found that he was by no means the physical wreck he has been pictured.

Burnham on Car?
The police are investigating a story, told by Ira Harris, a prominent attorney and former mayor, which may have some bearing on the case. Mr. Harris is said to have seen a man who bore a striking resemblance to Burnham riding on a northbound Tejon street car about 1:30 o'clock of the afternoon preceding the evening when the murders are supposed to have been committed.

When interviewed last night, he would make no statement further than to say that he had made one to the police. In this connection the police say:

"According to our information, Judge Harris boarded the Tejon car in the business district, on his way home. The car was crowded, but he managed to find a seat by the side of a man then unknown to him. According to our information, he had noticed the man riding in the same direction on different occasions. Now, according to the story, Judge Harris thinks the man bears a close resemblance to Burnham. We have talked to Judge Harris concerning the information that was given us, and he has informed us of all he knows. His statement bears out to an extent the story as it was told to us."

But the police hold that it was a case of mistaken identity, and have discarded every theory that would tend to indicate that Burnham was connected with the deed.

The only bearing that the incident, providing that it is not a case of mistaken identity, would have on the case, is to show that Burnham was not telling the truth when he says that he was not in Colorado Springs on that day. Of course, that would be welcome news to us, but from what we have discovered, there is no doubt about Burnham being at the sanatorium all day Sunday and until late in the evening," the police say.

"I do not wish to be brought into the case and have nothing to say," Judge Harris said. "I have told the police all I know."

USES SHELL FOR HAMMER; INJURIES MAY BE FATAL
NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Mrs. Anna Halbit took a loaded one-pound shell from the mantle in her home tonight to use as a hammer. She struck the percussion cap in the base of the projectile and, in the explosion which followed she received injuries which probably will prove fatal.

The shell had laid on the mantle several years as a souvenir presented by a friend and its dangerous nature had never been suspected by the woman.

FARMS MUST BE FORCED

urged scientific farming as the only means by which the cost of living can be reduced. In part Mr. Wallace said:

President Wallace's Address.
It will be my object in this address not to discuss any phase of the conservation movement exhaustively, but to outline briefly two drifts of population: The drift from the farm to the city, and the drift from the work of the conservation movement.

Even before the daily press had begun the crusade "back to the land," the movement toward the land had already begun.

Latent in the heart of nearly every man, be he master of business, or other employee, or laboring with his hands, there is a yearning desire to have a piece of land to call his own.

Alongside of this movement back toward the land, there is another movement, the counter movement from the farm to the town, which has been going on for 50 years, continues with increasing and accelerated force. Farmers all over the older west move in great numbers leaving the country towns; and notwithstanding all this constant influx of population from the farms, these towns, as the late census reveals, have barely held their own, and often have lost in population, the natural increase of the towns themselves pouring into the larger towns and cities, in which the majority live with less comfort than the farmers who remain on the farms.

Vast numbers of boys and girls find a prey to alluring vices of the city, and many of them eventually take their places with the "down and out." Comparatively few succeed and become well-to-do. The children of these few become wealthy; their grandchildren usually spend gaily the fortunes they never earned; and naturally the family dies out, at least so far as force and power is concerned in another generation, or at most two or three. The city uses up men and families as it uses up horses. And this is true not only in this but in the older countries as well. Ireland, for example, except Dublin and Belfast, has lost population in the last ten years, as also has nearly all of Wales and Scotland.

Cause of Movement.
I regard it as important that you should understand, as far as possible, the conditions that have caused this worldwide movement from the farm to the city, as only in this way shall we be able to foresee and describe the conditions that will cause and are now causing the return of the movement back toward the land. The movement toward the land, with the use of improved machinery, or the application of science to the operations of manufacturing and distribution, the things necessary for the supply of our ever-increasing human wants. It has increased in proportion to the success of the inventions and discoveries. The progress has been the progress of the organization of capital, and gave us one of the greatest and most difficult of modern problems, that of the labor unions.

In the factory we no longer aim to secure local markets, but state, interstate, national and even international. For this there must be transportation and therefore we have a railroad problem closely intertwined with the labor problem, intimately connected with the whole process of manufacturing and distribution. The products of these great factories must be used by consumers living at long distances from the place of production, or the problem of the middleman, and all the direct results of the application of science to industry. Since the world began the like has never been seen before.

Lures of the City.
With corn at from 25 to 35 cents, wheat 50 cents, oats 15 cents, the manufacturer could afford to pay the laborer more than the farmer and give shorter hours. The city did furnish paved streets, lights, a sewerage system, the joy of living. It is any wonder that the farm boys and girls fled to the cities? The fact is that they began to use improved machinery. The farmer used more horses, better tools, and grew more crops with less than half the labor. All this was natural, logical, inevitable. The older farming sections do not have so dense a population as of old simply because they do not use it with profit when they had to compete with town wages and town hours.

What then followed? Inevitably, soil impoverishment. The nineteenth century farmer was speaking generally, no farmer at all, but a miser, a soil robber. The nineteenth century farmer sold the stored fertility of ages at the price of a few dollars. With his gang-plow and four to eight-section harrow, he could do more soil robbing in five years than his grandfather could in a whole lifetime.

Exports Shrinking.
We are now nearing a point where we will need practically all our grains to provide for the wants of our own population. Our export of corn is merely a dribble; in our last census year, 100,000,000 bushels less than the average 10 years before. Our exports of meats and dairy products have shrunk in 10 years over 15 per cent. We shipped last year only about one-third the number of cattle we sent 10 years ago. There is not the slightest indication that this decline will be checked. If checked, all it will be for a temporary respite due to an industrial crisis. Were it not for the over $500,000,000 worth of cotton that we send abroad each year the country would be drained of its precious metals to settle foreign obligations, and we would be on the verge of national bankruptcy. Lands in England that have been farmed for more than 1,000 years produce more than twice as much wheat per acre on the average as we do in the naturally better lands of the Mississippi valley. This demonstrates the difference between farming and mere mining the soil fertility.

This condition has been greatly hastened by our statesmen. The gift of an empire of land to railroads to enable them to furnish speedy and cheap transportation for a vast continent, together with the homestead law, an excessively stimulated agricultural production that the farmer was often, and in fact generally, until about 12 years ago, forced to sell his products at a loss of over under the cost of production. This gave the world cheaper food than it will ever see again, and made possible the wonderful growth of great cities the world over.

Furning of the Lane.
Inasmuch as there are no more Mississippi valleys to be opened up, and we are now near the turning of the wheel, from now on, farmers must learn how to farm. We cannot greatly increase our acreage, will, in fact, be compelled, by the return of normal climatic conditions over our western territory, to reduce it. The only thing left to do is to grow more grain per acre, better stock in greater numbers per quarter section. Only in this way can we reduce the cost of living.

A great problem as I said in this conference year ago, is how to produce food for our own people at a price which they can afford to pay. But how? Partly by putting more of the

Iron Workers Reelect Secretary McNamara and Vote Him a Badge

MITWAUKKEE, Sept. 25.—J. J. McNamara was today reelected by acclamation secretary of the International Association of Structural, Bridge and Iron Workers, in convention here. A $75 gold badge was voted to McNamara, whose trial is pending in Los Angeles.

W. S. Hookin was reelected acting secretary. F. M. Ryan, Chicago, was reelected president, and John P. Butler, Niagara Falls, second vice president. Eugene A. Clancy, first vice president, is seriously ill and is not expected to survive. It was reported of the convention floor. In the event of Mr. Butler becoming first vice president, Mr. Hookin will succeed to the second vice presidency.

The initiation and contribution fee of $25 will be increased to $50 if the locals ratify the action taken by the delegates in convention today.

The executive board was increased from four to six members.

Country is Awakening.
All over the country there is the beginning of a great social and industrial awakening. The farmer is beginning to "magnify his office," to cut loose from partisan bias, to do his own thinking and act for himself. He is paying better salaries to his school teachers and insisting that the teaching have some relation to the life on the farm. He is buying his own automobiles, and paying cash for them. He is beginning to realize that farm life is essentially different from the life of the town. The movement to organize country life is spreading. The boys and girls are organizing for games. The country church is beginning to realize its mission, and in several states country preachers are taking short courses in agricultural colleges in order that they may teach morals and religion to farmers in terms of their daily life.

In conclusion, permit me to say that the ultimate prosperity of the city, its ability to govern itself wisely and well, depends on the development of rural manhood.

WOMAN, RESENTING A BLOW FROM HUSBAND, KILLS HIM

DENVER, Sept. 25. Resenting a blow from her husband, who she alleges has accused her of misconduct, Mrs. Gertrude E. Patterson today shot and killed her husband. The shooting took place in front of the E. B. Hendrie home at Onelda and East Twelfth avenue, Aurora.

Spectators claim Mrs. Patterson shot after her husband had fired several shots at her without effect.

Mrs. Patterson was named in an alienation suit for $25,000, filed Friday in Chicago against Emil Strauss, millionaire clothing manufacturer of Chicago. In a divorce suit filed at the same time and later withdrawn, Patterson charged that Strauss induced Mrs. Patterson to leave him four months after they were married. He further alleged that his wife and Strauss spent a summer together traveling in Europe.

Patterson was formerly a stock broker in Chicago and came to Denver seven months ago for his health.

proceeding merely to annoy the defense.

Judge Bordwell said he did not think an amended answer necessary as he had understood the original document. He declared that animadversions cast at the grand jury and the district attorney by the defense at the beginning of the hearing last Friday, had not been admitted to the records and that he did not wish to hear more of them. He declared that Harrington's services to the McNamara were not those of counsel and therefore the law did not protect him in that capacity. There was no reason, the judge declared, why Harrington should not answer the questions asked by the grand jury.

Scott argued that the grand jury here had no right to investigate the charge that Harrington had tried to bribe Mrs. Ingersoll in San Francisco. He said that if any investigation were to be made of the alleged crime it should be made in San Francisco.

Judge Bordwell said that he had decided otherwise and declared that the grand jury must be permitted to proceed with its investigation whenever it thought there was ground for believing that attempts were being made on either side illegally to influence witnesses. He said it was to be commended for its work.

Tells Counsel To "Sit Down"

"Then where do we get off at?" roared Scott.

"Examine the law," said the court. "Sit down Mr. Scott. I want no further argument over the matter."

Davis arose and began addressing the court on the same subject. He also was told sharply to "sit down."

Judge Bordwell said he did not think that it was necessary to order any punishment for Harrington, but ruled that he must answer the questions. He released him on his own recognizance. Opposing counsel then agreed upon next Monday as the time for Harrington's scheduled reappearance before the grand jury. The court agreed to examine the amended answer Scott wished to file, to determine if it had been admitted to the records. He also permitted the defense to have inserted into the records the refusal of the court to summon members of the grand jury to testify in court as to their good faith in the Harrington matter.

Clarence Darrow, of the defense said tonight the ruling of Judge Bordwell, taken with his previous statements, that he had ordered the grand jury to investigate the case and his commanding it for its action, gave the defense ground for asking a change of judges. If a motion for a change of judges is made it will be presented to Judge Bordwell himself. Before the case could be taken from this county, it would have to be shown that all 13 of the regular judges here and two or three who sit in extra sessions also were biased.

HUNDREDS OF FRENCH

moment all I was conscious of was being carried aboard the Republic, where I was taken care of. When I had somewhat recovered my senses they told me what had happened.

Debris Damages Republic

"After the explosion an enormous fragment detached from the bows of the Liberte and other pieces of iron fell on the Republic smashing the bridge and plunging between decks. The bugler of the Liberte was hurled through the air from our liftable ship to the deck of the Republic, where he was picked up badly hurt. In his hands he still held the bugle with which he was sounding the alarm."

All the boats that surrounded the Liberte were engulfed in the whirlpools caused by the sinking ship. They vanished amid the despairing cries of the crew.

On reaching the wreck, a reporter found that the mooring buoy had blown away considerable distance. The battleship itself was a mass of buckled plating, inextricably mixed with torn boilers and shattered machinery.

Commander Dekoraundren of the Republic said that when the explosion occurred his vessel was shaken from stem to stern.

French Naval Disasters.

The recent history of the French navy contains a series of disastrous accidents, most of them caused by explosions, and several occurring at Toulon, the scene of today's catastrophe.

On March 12, 1907, the battleship Iena was almost destroyed by the explosion of her magazine, and 107 officers and men lost their lives. Until today the Iena disaster stood as the greatest recent calamity suffered by the French navy in times of peace. Like the Liberte, the Iena was blown up in the harbor of Toulon, but the loss of life was less, mainly because the Iena remained afloat.

An investigation of the Iena explosion resulted in an official report that it was due to spontaneous combustion of powder in a magazine where the temperature was too high on account of the proximity of the dynamo compartment. The report severely censured the organization of the navy and said:

"The real cause of the disaster was the absence of accord, as well as the divisions and antagonisms existing in the different branches of the service. The distressing weakness of the central power explains the progressive weakening of our naval forces. Where will it lead us?"

A parliamentary committee, appointed in 1907, presented a report scathing in its condemnation of the naval administration of the preceding 10 years and recommending a complete reorganization with special attention to the elimination of red tape and the distribution of responsibility.

Other notable French naval disasters of recent years were:

October 16, 1906—Submarine Lutin, lost off Bizertal; 13 dead.

February 8, 1907—Explosion on torpedo boat No. 338; nine dead.

February 19, 1907—Cruiser Jean Bart, lost off the northwestern coast of Africa; no deaths.

August 13, 1908—Gun exploded aboard scout ship Couronne, at Toulon; six dead.

September 23, 1908—Gun exploded aboard cruiser Latouche Treville, at Toulon; 13 dead.

May 27, 1910—Submarine Pluviose, sent down submerged after diving in the harbor of Calais; 27 dead.

September 10, 1911—Gun, exploded aboard cruiser Gloire, at Toulon; one man killed and 13 injured, five fatally.

Similar to Iena Disaster.

It is now almost established that the disaster on the Liberte was due to the deflagration of "B" powder, as in the case of the Iena. Toward 5 o'clock the watch perceived a dense smoke coming from the forepart of the ship. He reported this to the officers, who promptly ordered that the magazines be flooded as a first precaution. The men whose duty it was to open the sea valves, returned precipitately, saying that it was impossible to carry out orders on account of the thick, poisonous fumes rising from the magazines.

Word of the danger flew from mouth to mouth. Men rushed to the boats or jumped into the sea. At this juncture help arrived from the other ships and the officers of the Liberte decided to make another effort to conquer the fire. The bugler was asked to sound the rally. The spirit of discipline was so excellent that the men who had jumped overboard asked the boats which picked them up to put them back aboard the Liberte.

Some idea of the violence of the explosion may be had from the fact that the officers commanding the gunnery schoolship Foudre, anchored three kilometers (1.88 miles) from the Liberte, was killed on his own quarter deck by a fragment of shell hurled from the Liberte, and two sailors standing beside him were wounded.

There was a roll call of the remnant of the crew of the Liberte on board the battleship Suffren tonight. The scene was pitiful, as many of the men were injured and most of them were in tears.

Experts are of the opinion that the fire on the Liberte was not the cause, but the result, of the explosion. Eyewitnesses say that it was not until after the explosions that smoke was seen issuing from the ship.

A ferryboat, with more than 100 workmen on board, was nearly involved in the disaster. As it was nearing the Liberte, smoke and flames were observed coming from the Liberte and the captain of the boat immediately ordered his engines reversed and backed out of danger.

section drove into town in automobiles and various sorts of rigs.

Tells Again About Vetoes.

Mr. Taft confined himself largely to the vetoes of the woolen, free list and cotton tariff bills. He gave his hearers to understand that he was more than willing to sign any bill reducing the tariff if founded upon the report of the tariff board. This board, the president said, would be ready to report on the woolen schedule the first of December. This statement on this point set at rest the report that there would be a delay.

"I believe that the present woolen duties are too high," he exclaimed, amid applause, "and just as soon as I get adequate information I shall recommend their reduction."

Mr. Taft began the day at Coffeyville, and spoke also at Independence, Cherryvale, Thayer, Chanute, Humboldt, Iola, Garnett, Ottawa, Edgerton and Olathe.

The president appeared on the back platform and waved to the station throngs at Carlisle, the home of Gen. Frederick Funston; Colony; and several other small towns. He was on the go from 7:30 a. m. until the arrival here at 6:30 tonight. When his train was not in motion, the president was talking, and when he was not talking, the train was being hurried pell-mell to the next scheduled stop.

Marriage and Divorce.

Said from his tariff speeches, the president spoke briefly on marriage and divorce, on the propriety of the people of Kansas and on the trusts.

In coming to a discussion of the necessity for uniform laws governing marriage and divorce, the president first spoke of the necessity of uniform laws on the subject of child labor and workmen's compensation. As to marriage and divorce, he said:

"It is very awkward, to say the least, that a man who is married on one side of a state line, may not be married on the other. The increase of divorces in this country is a reflection upon the laws and their loose administration. We ought not to permit the marriage tie to be dissolved at will. You say we ought not to keep unhappy people together. We brought them together, did we not? If they got together under a contract, why shouldn't they be bound to the contract, unless one or the other does something which, in the eyes of all men, ought to permit him or her to require at least separation, if not a divorce."

"The trouble is not that in an individual case divorces follow because they are separated, but the trouble is, when a man or a woman feels that it is only a question of opinion with her whether she will live with her husband or he with his wife, then, with that option before them, they conduct themselves in such a way very frequently, as to lead to a breach."

"We ought to have a uniform law that makes sacred the marriage rite."

Following his conservation address here tonight, the president left again for Kansas, and will spend Tuesday and Wednesday in that state.

CHILDREN OF WYOMING'S EX-GOVERNOR MURDERED

Bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jenkins Found on Ranch With Discharged Revolvers Nearby

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Sept. 25. Mrs. Edna J. Richards Jenkins, youngest daughter of ex-Gov. W. A. Richards of Wyoming, and her husband, Thomas Jenkins, assistant manager of the Richards ranch near Redbank, Wyo., were found dead late yesterday with bullet holes through their bodies. Jenkins' body was found in bed in the ranch house while Mrs. Jenkins was under a tree in the yard. The discovery was made by children of ex-State Senator George McCallahan, a partner of Richards in the cattle business. It is not known whether both were murdered, or Jenkins killed his wife and then committed suicide.

McCallahan told several times on Sunday to get the Jenkins ranch by telephone but no one responded. Toward evening Senator McCallahan sent his children with a message to the Richards ranch, asking Jenkins to answer the telephone. The children found the body of Mrs. Jenkins under a tree lying in a pool of blood.

The children gave the alarm and later Jenkins' body was found on the porch. A revolver with several empty cartridge shells was found nearby. A second six-shooter from which two shots had been fired lay on top of the dresser. Husband and wife had been dead for some hours.

Investigation disclosed that the unexploded cartridges in the revolver found near Jenkins are of the same caliber as some of those which inflicted fatal wounds upon Mrs. Jenkins, while other wounds were inflicted by bullets of the same caliber as those in the gun found by her body. From this the coroner has evolved a theory of a suicide pact, declaring that in his opinion Jenkins first shot his wife and then himself, but that she recovered consciousness and carried out her part of the pact.

Former Governor Richards has been in Idaho in the vicinity of Dubois for some time and telegrams notifying him of the tragedy were sent to that city.

WICHITA RECALLS MAYOR

WICHITA, Kan., Sept. 25.—Mayor J. H. Graham, who was elected last April for a second term, was recalled at a special election here today by a plurality of 1,585 votes. Dr. W. W. Minick, who was his unsuccessful opponent when Mr. Graham was first elected, was chosen to succeed him.

Commissioner E. M. Leach was recalled, but the recall movement against Commissioner Campbell failed.

The election was held on the ground that Mayor Graham had removed a chief of police who was aggressive in enforcing the prohibition law and that the administration proposed to buy the present water plant instead of building a new one.

Queensland banana growers are rejoicing. The shipments of bananas to the south have risen from 3,000 bunches a week to 8,000 and prices have risen as well. One man in the north this season cleared $2,000 from 10 acres of fruit. His crop was 4,000 cases and he was fortunate to strike a good market. The exports from Queensland will probably reach 15,000 bunches as the fruit matures during the next six weeks.

THE LAND PROBLEM

DESPITE all the publicity that has been given the Dry Farming Congress which meets in this city next month, there are probably a great many people here in Colorado Springs who do not fully comprehend why so much fuss should be made over the fact that people are making a living off semiarid land that used to be considered good for nothing. They are not quite able to see why such a meeting as that to be held here should attract even national, to say nothing of worldwide interest, with the various States, the National Government and many foreign governments officially represented. Those same people, moreover, probably do not see what the occasion is for so many gatherings, such as land congresses and irrigation congresses and conservation congresses, at which methods of tilling the soil are discussed and agricultural products exhibited. And the situation is probably similar throughout the country generally.

It requires only a few figures, however, to furnish a ready explanation of the great and growing interest which is being taken in the problems of agricultural development, and for purposes of convenience we will quote statistics presented by President Taft in an address at Syracuse several days ago. In continental United States, he said, there are about 1,900,000,000 acres of land, of which 873,000,000 acres are included in the acreage of farms. In the last ten years that acreage did not increase more than 35,000,000 or a little more than four per cent. In the same time the population increased approximately twenty per cent. Of the farm acreage, about 477,000,000 acres is improved land, an increase of 63,000,000 in ten years or fifteen per cent.

The population, in other words, is increasing one-third faster than the area of improved agricultural land, and the fixed limit of the latter is considerably less than 873,000,000 acres, much of that area being incapable of cultivation. In addition to it there are some 50,000,000 acres of swamp land which can be drained and 25,000,000 acres of land which can be irrigated. At the present rate of population increase the country will be face to face with the necessity in another half century of supporting a population of upwards of two hundred million people on, roughly speaking, eight hundred million acres of farming land.

PROBLEM IS PABLE FROM THESE FIGURES THAT THE DAY IS NOT DISTANT WHEN WE SHALL BE PRESSING THE LIMIT OF OUR SELF-SUPPORTING SOIL, AND IT BECOMES A PROBLEM OF GRAVE NATIONAL IMPORTANCE NOT ONLY THAT EVERY ACRE OF TILLABLE GROUND BE PUT UNDER CULTIVATION BUT THAT EVERY METHOD OF INCREASING PRODUCTIVITY PER UNIT OF AREA BE LEARNED AND UTILIZED.

How near at hand the time is when we shall need every bushel of our grains to support our own population is indicated by the fact that if the present rate at which consumption is overhauling production persists, the United States will in another generation be consuming all the grain it produces.

So far we have been a nation of extensive farmers. We have had such a wealth of highly productive land that we have had no need at least realized none of getting all out of the soil that it was capable of yielding. We have sowed and reaped and sowed and reaped, with no thought of conserving the productivity of the soil, and it is safe to assert that a large percentage of our farming land has been farmed in such a way that its productive qualities have become decreased.

Now we are confronted by the problem of utilizing all our land and of getting out of it all that it can possibly produce. We must become a nation of intensive farmers, if we are not to become partly dependant, as England is almost wholly, upon foreign countries for our grain supply. This problem is by no means confined to the United States, for inevitably in time every country will face the same necessity of working its soil to a maximum of productivity.

This is why every civilized nation is interested in the effort to reclaim, to make productive through scientific methods, the semiarid lands which until recent years have been looked upon as wastes, and whose reclamation the world over will furnish a living to tens of millions of additional people. This is why every successful effort to raise crops where the rainfall is meager, every experiment in conserving moisture after it has reached the soil, every practice which results in greater production, is of prime economic interest wherever such land exists. And it is why every gathering which furthers the development of dry farming, of irrigated agriculture, of scientific cultivation in all its phases, of conservation, is of an importance not local or national, but worldwide.

THE SINCLAIRS

THE matrimonial difficulties of Upton Sinclair and his wife, which have lately been occupying considerable newspaper space, are not essentially different in character from those which furnish a great deal of the steadily increasing grist of the divorce mills. But owing to the prominence of Sinclair in the literary world their "advanced theories" of love and matrimony have been accorded a great deal of free publicity (which Upton, likewise the Kansas poet who has supplanted him in his wife's affections, will no doubt make good use of) and in all probability the popular tendency to follow the dictates of the heart, lead where they may, has in consequence been given new impetus.

The trouble with both Mrs. Sinclair, who thinks it is all right for a woman to make bigamous or polygamous excursions, if necessary, in the search for her mate, and Mr. Sinclair, who seems to think it perfectly proper for his other half to leave him for somebody else, even a corn-fed bard, if she thinks he is her predestined mate, is that in their disregard of established social laws they seek to set themselves up above moral principles whose worth has been demonstrated by the sober judgment of the ages.

Time has taught that the surest cornerstone of a progressive civilization is the monogamic home, and he who seeks in the gratification of his own desires to disregard the tenets of a monogamic society is its enemy. There are enough disruptive forces at work today, without such wilful defiance of established conventions as the Sinclairs have shown, and the only reason there is not a stronger protest is that they, and others who think as they do, succeed in nothing but making inordinate fools of themselves.

FROM OTHER PENS

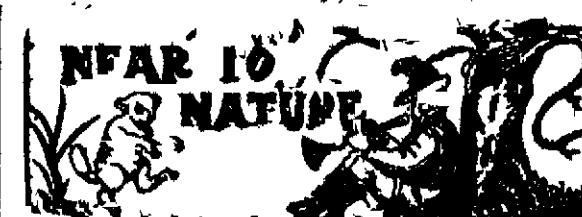

SCHOOL
A man may gauge how old he is by the degree of interest he feels in the announcement that school's open again. If he is still a young man, with considerable of the boy left in him, he will hear that boy exclaim in some recess of his outdoor-loving consciousness. "Gee, that's too bad." Minds in which there is not the least symptom of momentary regret that the long and delicious vacation is over are minds which have long been engrossed by the cares of the workaday world and in which not even a living memory of the romance of boyhood remains. As for the children themselves, they have our sympathy. Also the teachers. For teaching an unwilling child is no child's play, and it takes some time to get the wheels of discipline running smoothly. And yet there is a great deal in school life nowadays that is almost delightful. It is at least interesting to wide-awake boys and girls, and the progress that they make in their studies after the seductive calls of outdoors has been forgotten is the best evidence that they appreciate the charm which comfortable schoolrooms combined with intelligent and kindly pedagogical methods have contrived to instill into our modern public school education.

INSANITY EXPERTS

From the New York Tribune.
The American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology, which is doing a useful work in furtherance of criminal procedure reform, has through one of its committees taken up the subject of insanity defense and the medical expert in criminal trials. It condemns with the usual sharpness the tendency in the enforcement of the American criminal law, but its suggestions for reform, like most of the suggestions that have been made by the bar associations and others interested to remove this evil, are not particularly promising. It recommends the establishment by the medical profession of a code of ethics governing physicians called upon to give opinions as to the sanity of defendants in criminal trials and by the bar to govern lawyers employing insanity as a defense for their clients. The trouble with codes of professional ethics is the difficulty of enforcing them. Another recommendation is for the creation of a group of qualified experts and the restriction of the state and the defense to this group in calling expert witnesses. Constitutional difficulties might stand in the way of this. And where are the experts to be found who are not already discredited by what has been done in the name of expert testimony?

Much of the scandal regarding expert testimony is usually held to result from the arbitrary standard of insanity fixed by law and the consequent difference between legal and medical insanity. This difference is such that in the Thaw case the witnesses who testified at Thaw's trial that he was legally insane at the time of his shooting of Mr. White also testified that he was medically sane when he was being tried, while the experts who pronounced him legally sane at the time of the act had no hesitation in calling him medically insane at the time of the trial. The committee recommends that legal tests of insanity be abolished, but even if legal and medical insanity could be made synonymous it is not clear that any great gain would result. Doctors constantly disagree when there is not a large fee to induce a dissent, and it is a fact that it is always possible to array as many experts on one side of the question of insanity as upon the other that constitutes the discredit of expert testimony. If medical insanity were the question before the court, the exact balance of expert testimony at trials would very likely still be maintained.

Perhaps it is unnecessary to seek a remedy, since juries themselves show signs of curing the evil by exhibiting their complete disregard of the experts. In a recent case in this city a jury ignored the unanimous opinion of a considerable body of medical experts with physicians exhibiting that disposition, it will soon come to be worth while for either side in a trial to spend large sums upon expert testimony. And with the commercialization of such testimony over, its worst evils will disappear.

VITAL STATISTICS
From the Greeley Republican.

Out of the mystic, magic land of Nod-a-way, where the Wonder-bird has ruled supreme since the Wilky Way was put in place to guide him on his journey so long ago that he has even lost count of the yesterdays that have passed, there came a wee baby girl last night which was left at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. B. Petrkin.

I want to do what good I can—the other course is shocking, but since I have no settled plan, I take it out in talking. I'm always telling what I'd do if I had heaps of money; I'd go among the poor and strew a lot of bread and honey. I'd stand upon the market place, and do a lot of "DOING GOOD" speakin', and virtue shines upon my face until I seem a beacon. And people hear my platitudes without a sign of mocking; they, too, are anxious to be good, and take it out in talking. And humble homes around me stand where ailing people languish, and I might lend a helping hand, and ease all kinds of anguish. And there are springlike gone astray, for whom I might do service by showing them the better way—but such things make me nervous. And there are hopeless eyes around, and phantoms by me sailing, and in the night I hear the sound of weary women waiting. Around me in the mist and fogs are scenes and visions shocking. I stand before the synagogues, and help the world by talking.

THE CHIT-CHAT
-BY- RUTH CAMERON
We were speaking of a young girl, who although only twenty-two or three years old, looks thirty. She has not had a particularly hard life. There is nothing especially aging about her work. She has not had any more than the ordinary mortal's share of sorrows and disappointments.

Why, then, this strangely premature aging, we debated. Said the lady who always knows somehow, "I'll tell you just what I think it is. It's because she has so many responsibilities."

"Responsibilities," we scoffed, "what particular responsibilities has she, a girl of twenty-three, with a father and mother who give her a pleasant home, and not even any younger brothers and sisters to worry her?" "Well," said the lady, "she has her father's business to carry on, and then there's her mother's housework, and just think of the responsibility of that married sister's home and two children, and then there's her older brother's business, think what a tax that must be for her."

"You mean that she carries all the family responsibilities as well as her own?" "Exactly," said the lady, "just as most of these people who get old before their time do."

Aren't there innumerable people everywhere who are wearing themselves out just because they have not yet mastered what Harriet Beecher Stowe calls one of the most important parts of the scheme of living—"to learn just what our responsibility is, and to let other people's alone?" When we were out driving the other day, our horse became frightened and hove down upon a crossroad at a most undesirable smart pace. Just as we reached the crossing, another carriage loomed up in front of us, and although we pulled in as hard as we could it looked for an instant as if something were going to happen. Fortunately, the other man whipped up his horse and got past in time to avoid a collision.

"Didn't you think we were going to run into them?" I said afterwards. "Oh, no," said my companion cheerfully, "I knew that if the other man did his part we would be all right, and I thought he would. I believe in not trying to do the whole thing, but in giving the other fellow credit for having sense, as well as you."

"It seems to me that that is a philosophy which is too little regarded by many travelers on the King's Highway. We feel that the whole responsibility of avoiding a collision rests on our handling of the reins, while all the time the other fellow is doing just as much to avoid it."

We feel the burden of whole situations upon us, while in reality we are only responsible for some tiny corner of the business.

We insist on thrusting our shoulders beneath other folk's responsibilities, even though in so doing we do not help at all, and merely weary ourselves and hinder and impede them.

If only we could throw off this foolish weight of other people's responsibilities that we are struggling under, how many of us might throw back our shoulders and lift up our heads and breathe freely once more. Can't we?

Can't we relax from the strain of all the little cares and worries, let things go wrong in spite of us, and from the fear that something will happen in this old world of us? Can't we quietly listen and rest in that great big question that God asks us as he asked Job? "Where wast thou when I laid the foundations of the earth?"

ACTUAL DEMONSTRATIONS AT GOOD ROADS MEETING

Delegates to Western Slope Congress at Grand Junction Will See How It Is Done.

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo., Sept. 26.—Final preparations are being made for the first annual Western Slope Good Roads congress in this city Wednesday and Thursday, September 27 and 28. Good roads boosters from Leadville on the east, Silverton on the south and Salt Lake City on the west will meet in conference here to take the first step in the inauguration of a campaign for a Colorado-Utah highway for automobile tourists. Members of the state highway commission of Colorado and Utah, county commissioners from Garfield, Eagle, Delta, Montrose, Ouray, Gunnison, San Juan, Rio Blanco and Mesa counties in this state and from Grand, Garcon and San Juan counties in Utah will be in attendance. President C. A. Johnson of the Denver chamber of commerce is also expected. W. S. Wallace, chairman of the good roads committee of the Grand Junction chamber of commerce, and the father of the congress, intends that this meeting shall do practical work.

Actual demonstrations of road making with steam rollers, traction engines and road plows and drags will be made for the benefit of the delegates under the supervision of the state highway commission, and the last day of the congress the visitors will be loaded into automobiles for a trip to the Plateau canon, where the convict camp is located. The methods employed by the convicts will be studied, pictures taken showing the manipulation of the construction apparatus by the prisoners.

Another feature of the convention will be an open air stereopticon lecture under the auspices of the highway commission, illustrating road building. Senator George Stephan of Delta is chairman of the convention, and his $10,000,000 bonded indebtedness bill for the purpose of constructing and improving state highways, which will be voted upon by the people at the election next year, will probably be introduced by the delegates.

The disappearance from the senate journal of the third reading roll call on the bill transferring the internal improvement fund will be discussed and it is probable a resolution will be passed calling upon Governor Shafter to call an extra session, if necessary, to make good to the people of the state the loss of the road money.

A tentative program has been arranged, but the actual program will not be announced until word has been received from the state highway commission of Utah as to what Salt Lake speakers can be present.

SHEEP RANCH BRINGS $45,000

GREELEY, Colo., Sept. 25.—By the sale of the John A. Slayton ranch, adjoining Carr, for $45,000, is shown what can be done with a small flock of sheep. Twenty-one years ago Slayton settled with his family on a barren tract of land near Carr with a few head of sheep and a debt of $5,000. Neighbors said he could not make a living. Today his assets are close to $70,000, he has educated his children in high schools and colleges and has now made up his mind to retire and enjoy the profits of his long years of labor. He has sold his ranch of 4,000 acres to F. R. and G. C. Eldson of Wellington. The purchasers believe they will more than double their money in a few years when their property comes under irrigation by a system proposed.

SEVEN WOMEN MARTYRS

History has always attached much importance to the Number Seven. "Of all numbers there is one which commanded, in a higher degree, the esteem and reverence of mankind." The Gazette has taken this charmed number, and has woven into stories on a variety of subjects a Series of Sevens, beginning each Monday and continuing during the week.

NO. 2 MADAME ROWLAND

"Life, for my country and the cause of freedom, is but a trifle for a worm to part with; And, if preserved in so great a contest, Life is redoubled!"

MADAME ROWLAND, the heroine of the French revolution, has left us one of the noblest examples of her age. The world presents no more grand nor earnest figure than this French woman, who sacrificed everything in order to gain freedom from oppression for her country and its people. A child of poverty she gradually grew to distinction until she wielded for a time the mighty scepter which afterwards led her captive to the dungeon and finally to the guillotine. Her dying words have been quoted perhaps more than those of any other. "Oh Liberty! Liberty! how many crimes are committed in thy name."

These words Madame Rowland addressed to a statue of Liberty which stood nearby her place of execution; mockery in her eyes, erected to the cause for which she was giving her life. The powers of this woman must have been wonderful that she was able to bring to her feet all the great and mighty powers around her and practically dominate them and even to her death hold a mastery over them. The enthusiasm and passion of Madame Rowland for the downfall of tyranny so obvious in France in her day; her illusions, her martyrdom, her unextinguishable hope for the future amid the actual discouragement of the present, rendered her, even in the very depths of her dungeon, a living personification of the revolution.

Separated from the world, torn from her father, husband and child, she bathed in floods of inward tears the ardors of an imagination whose first, though smoldering, were not extinct. Beautiful to view, eloquent to listen to, to the idol of so many hearts, is it any wonder that the jailers of the Abbaye sought by every means a prison suitable to soften Madame Rowland's captivity? Some beings can only be persecuted from a distance beauty subdues and disarms all who approach it. Even when she was removed to the Conciergerie, and the near approach of her end was inevitable, courage in no way failed her, but instead her features seemed to take the impress of one appointed to fill some great and lofty destiny. Her composure had a stimulating effect upon those condemned around her. The length of her captivity, the calm consciousness with which she recognized the hopelessness of her situation, her voice tremulous with emotion, she forbore giving way to tears; gave to her words that thrilling interest that finds its way to every heart.

When she came up for examination and trial, with a proud look of triumph she admitted her guilt. When sentenced to death, her doom was received with that air which would indicate that she saw in her condemnation her title to immortality. To her judges she simply bowed with a bitter and ironical smile as she said: "I thank you for considering me worthy to share the fate of the good and great men you have murdered!"

On the day when she was taken in the death-cart to the place of execution she was attired in a white robe as a symbol of her innocence, her magnificent black hair falling in thick masses almost to her knees. Her complexion, on that fateful November day, glowed with the freshness of early youth; her eyes were full of expression, while her whole countenance beamed radiant with glory.

Her enemies cried: "To the guillotine!" "I am going there," was her reply, "but those who send me thither will soon follow; I am innocent, but I am stained with blood, and you who have signed our execution will then applaud theirs with equal zeal."

By her side in the wagon was an old man. When they arrived at the scaffold and as preparations were being made to have her mount to the guillotine first, she displayed one of those noble and tender considerations for others that only a woman's heart could conceive, or put into practice at such a moment.

"Stay!" she said, "I have only one favor to ask and that is not for myself. I beseech you to grant it to me." Then turning to the old man, she said: "Do you proceed me to the scaffold; to see my blood flow would be making you to suffer the bitterness of death twice over. I must spare you the pain of witnessing my punishment."

Her request was granted. She possessed so strong a will that she was able to witness "the execution of Lemarche without changing color. When her own time came she mounted the steps lightly and with no signs of fear resigned herself to the hands of her executioner.

Thus perished a woman whose earliest and fondest dream had been the Revolution, and who had communicated her feelings to a set of young, eloquent and enthusiastic men, who found in the lips and eyes of their goddess a species of endless adoration. It was the pure and involuntary affection with which her beauty and genius inspired them that drew about her such a large circle of superior men, and after judging of the period, women can only find pride in summing up the career of this wonderful woman.

BILLY SINGLE CLIFFORD RETURNS IN OLD PLAY

By J. R. H.

"The Girl, the Man and the Game," in which Billy "Single" Clifford presented himself at the Opera house last night for the second time in this city, is slightly improved over last year's production, principally in matter of costumes and chorus. Nevertheless it is quite as dull and uninteresting as before. This "very musical feast," as the program describes it, is a catch-all of the old tricks and methods of burlesque comedy. The supposedly musical selections are tuneless, formless, colorless. The plot is a poor rehash of the good old comedy of "Jane," which is badly mislabeled by the librettist, and wretchedly acted by the company. The genuine fun of "Jane" is lost; the situations have degenerated into coarse, meaningless horseplay. As a matter of fact, "The Girl, the Man and the Game" is not worth serious consideration.

Billy Clifford amuses some people. There were those who find much to laugh at in his antics. His monologue is the best thing he does though even it arouses but mild interest. Mae Collins, rather pretty of face, and Wilhelm Bowman, stiff, ungraceful, ungainly, uphold the female portion of the cast.

The most interesting thing about the affair is the odd, though rather picturesque, assortment of names which the chorus girls possess. Lol, Nadine and Maona go hand in hand with Mary, Patsy and Daisy. In closing we might suggest that, if being "single" is the cause of Clifford's outburst, hereafter we shall choose married actors; but puns are vulgar so we resist the temptation—to make this one.

IMAGINATIVE GIRL WILL BE TAKEN TO MORRISON

If Mary Waltman, a 16-year-old girl, was looking for notoriety, as the officers believe, when she attempted to tell them that she was possessed of facts concerning the Wayne and Burnham murders, she is going to have plenty of it. Preparations will be completed today to take her to the state reform school for girls at Morrison.

The girl is the adopted daughter of Chris Waltman, 314 West View street, in the southwest part of the city. Two or three days after the murders became known she gave information to J. A. Himebaugh, commissioner of public safety and acting chief of police, that she was possessed of facts concerning the crime. In a letter to Mr. Himebaugh she told of meeting a man whose first name is John, at Stratton park. He lived in Ivywild, she said, and was tall and had a dark mustache. On the night of the last concert at the park, she met him again. This time, she said, John introduced her to Henry Wayne, and later introduced her to a man who was going to kill Wayne, because of a gambling debt. After the murder, they met on the street, and John told her that he had carried out the threat.

The girl connected the story in order to get a little notoriety, was the way Commissioner Himebaugh classified the tale.

She repeated the story to newspaper men, while being held at the county jail, yesterday, after having been taken in charge by the juvenile court.

10-Year-Old Canadian

With Dry Farm Exhibit

The international character of the Dry Farming congress is shown by the daily receipts of mail. Yesterday memberships were taken out by men in Valdez, Alaska, and Omeja, Cuba. The Alaska man is the first from his region to join the movement.

William S. Simpson, a 10-year-old boy, is the first person from Canada to make an entry at the exposition of dry-farmed products. His entry plank came yesterday, and he is sending enough stuff for 20 lots. Young Simpson lived at Glenbrian, Swift Water county, Saskatchewan.

NEW MEXICO HEARTILY SUPPORTS THE CONGRESS

President State Agricultural College Issues Letter to 4,000 Well Known Citizens

That New Mexicans have taken up dry farming with a strong determination, is shown by every mail that comes in from them. That the leading citizens are determined the embryo state shall make a good showing at the international exposition, and enough of her citizens come here to result in benefit to the commonwealth, is shown by the following letter that has just been sent out by Dr. Garrison, president of the State Agricultural college, to 4,000 prominent citizens of New Mexico.

What Dr. Garrison Says.

To You Who Are Interested in the Development of Dry Farming in New Mexico.

Gentlemen—At a meeting at Mountainair, N. M., August 5, the New Mexico Dry Farming association was organized. Five counties were represented at this meeting. A constitution embracing all of the best points of the other state dry farming organizations was adopted. The officers named above were elected, and the following members of the executive committee were chosen:

Isaac Barth, Albuquerque, N. M., (Bernalillo county).

John W. Corbett, Mountainair, N. M., (Torrance county).

Charles L. Schreck, Los Tanos, N. M., (Guanajuato county).

Reed E. Wilford, Agricultural college, N. M., (Doña Ana county).

Clarence A. Probert, Taos, N. M., (Taos county).

Every county in New Mexico should be represented on this executive committee, and the farmers of the counties not represented as shown above should send in their choice of a committee member at once. This executive committee has charge of the actual work of the association between its annual meeting, and strong, active men, deeply interested in development of their counties should be chosen for this position.

Membership in the New Mexico Dry Farming association carries with it membership in the International Dry Farming congress, and all members are entitled to receive the regular monthly bulletin of the congress, "Dry Farming," as well as the annual report of the session of the national congress. The New Mexico association also is entitled to publish any desirable matter in the "Bulletin."

The membership fee is only $1 per year. Of this $1, 75 cents goes to the support of the Dry Farming congress publication and the remaining 25 cents covers the expenses of the New Mexico association.

The reverses we have suffered should have taught us the stern necessity for getting together to study our dry farming problem. Every year some men have made crops in spite of the dry weather—we need to learn how they have done it.

Other matters just now before the association, which are of pressing importance, are that New Mexico should be represented by a good attendance at the meeting of the Dry Farming congress at Colorado Springs, Colo., October 15-20, and that the new state should have a splendid exhibit of its dry farming products there.

Give us your help in this effort to make the New Mexico Dry Farming association a success; and through the association assist in developing the dry farming resources of our new state.

If you want to help, send $1, the annual membership fee, to Earl Scott, secretary-treasurer, Estancia, N. M., as soon as possible, and consider yourself appointed a committee of one to work up an exhibit from your locality to the Dry Farming congress. Let us hear from you.

W. E. GARRISON, President, Agricultural College, N. M.

EARL SCOTT, Secretary-Treasurer, Estancia, N. M.

To Properly Treat Obsolete Wrinkles

Particularly where wrinkles and furrows are deep, the massage devotee is apt to rub too hard and too frequently," says Dr. Limoges. Such treatment loosens the skin, causes muscles to sag and aggravates the wrinkled condition. Just the opposite result from what she seeks.

"Better than massage or anything else, for the most obstinate wrinkles and crows' feet, as well as the finest lines, is a formula well known in France, which American ladies may readily avail themselves of, as you will have no difficulty procuring the constituents from your druggists. It is this: One ounce powdered salolite in one-half pint witch hazel. Bathe the face, neck and hands in this daily. The effect is really marvelous, not only as to wrinkles, but also in case of double chin and bags, checks. The application is cooling, soothing, tending to relieve fatigue and insomnia."

MOORE JURY UNABLE TO AGREE; IS DISCHARGED

The jury which sat in the William J. Moore murder case in the district court last week, was discharged last evening when the jurymen said they could not agree upon a verdict. The jury was out nearly 12 hours, since Friday evening at 5 o'clock and this is believed to be a record in the district court here. When the jury reported earlier in the day that it could not agree, some of the members expressed the belief that an agreement could be reached if they took a little more time. They were sent back to the jury room, but a few hours later at 4 o'clock, decided that they could not come to an agreement. Date for a retrial of the Moore case has not been set.

Fred Gorsline filed suit in the district court yesterday, asking $10,000 damages from the Colorado Midland Railway company for injuries alleged to have been received January 23, 1911. Gorsline is a brakeman on the road and alleges that his right foot was crushed when a string of empty freight cars struck him.

In the district court yesterday, Judge Shearor reset the date to October 17 for hearing arguments in the election contest suit in which John F. Worley seeks to have the result of the local option election in Colorado City last spring set aside. Colorado City remained "wet" by a single vote, and it is alleged that a number of improper ballots were cast.

HIGH PRAISE FOR FAMOUS AUTHOR

"The Bookman" says of Rex Beach, Author of "The Barrier":
Born in Michigan, Rex Beach went to college in Florida, then published his first book in New York. He was

Chicago construction and manufacturing company, secretary of the Chicago Athletic association, winner of the one-mile handicap swimming race at last year's games in St. Louis, and a holder of other athletic records.

His "Barrier" is considered his masterpiece, and the stage version of the score of minstrel companies en tour, but today the successful ones can be counted on the fingers of one hand, and why? Because the taste of theatergoers moves in cycles, as does everything else. Only a very few companies kept pace with the changing tastes of their patrons, and these alone survive. That is the reason it is so hard for a new name in the minstrel field to succeed. Minstrelsy decidedly does belong to a past generation, and the public all patronize only those companies whose names have been handed down like a trade mark through the years. And on the door of any theater where our company is appearing and you will be surprised at the large number of old people who enter. Men and women out with age, often supported with canes or crutches, and even in invalid chairs. Oh, don't tell me the world no longer loves a minstrel show; our business proves to the contrary.

The date of this company's appearance at the Opera house is Saturday matinee and night.

WATSON AND DWYER AT MAJESTIC A RIOT

There are no two ways of looking at the act of Watson and Dwyer, advertised as "Joy makers extraordinary" at the Majestic this week is a riot, and

BEN SMITH,
The Popular Black-Face Comedian, at the Majestic This Week.

If anybody wants to know (without paying to do so) what happens when a riot is on the theatrical boards, he need only stand in front of the Majestic when this team is on and listen to the bedlam of screams and laughter that continues for something like 13 minutes and a half, or from the moment Watson and Dwyer appear until they make their final bow.

And it would take about 13 minutes and a half to tell the funny and novel stuff they get off in the period aforesaid. They start off with a little singing and a little joking, and they know how to sing too, and then they get off some fake melodrama, and all the time they are getting funnier. Finally they come out as Scotch Highlanders and here is where the music starts in dead earnest, and the house starts to laugh as it never laughed before.

As comedy Scotch impersonators this pair has no rivals, to say nothing of equals, and they get off a line of unexpected stuff in 57 different varieties that is simply side-splitting. It would not be just exactly fair to anyone who has not seen the show to tell just what they do, and it would not be fair either to withhold the tip that they are just about the best ever, when it comes to fun making. A more laughable stunt has not been put on at the Majestic since the day before Christmas, and that is straight dope. Ask somebody.

Ben Smith, the original blackface man with the good, tender voice, and Beck and Henney, dancing and piano-forte experts, furnish a whole lot more good comedy, and by way of contrast, and sharp contrast, too, although there are many amusing things in it—the wonderful sketch "Father" provides an element of pathos that appeals with Edward Joe, the famous French character actor, at the head of the cast, this playlet is a marvelous piece of emotional dramatics that no lover of real art should miss.

A fine Rex film, "Faith," and a good comedy film, shown by the Majestic, scene, and the concert orchestra, program, are other features of a most entertaining bill. Performances at 2, 3, 7, 30 and 9:10. Admission only 10, 20 and 30 cents.

Absorption Process Makes Faces Young

(From The Home Maker.)
Success has at last come to scientists who for years have sought some efficient method of removing the outer facial skin in cases of unsightly complexion, which would be both painless and entirely non-injurious. The new process is so simple, the means so ordinary, so inexpensive, the wonder is that no one had discovered the same long ago.

It has been amply demonstrated that common mercerized wax, to be had at any drug store, completely removes, by gentle absorption, all the thickened, lifeless cuticle, showing the youthful, rosely skin underneath. The mercerized wax is applied at night—like cold cream, but not rubbed in—and washed off in the morning. The absorption also cleanses clogged pores, increasing the skin's breathing capacity, and capillary circulation, preserving the tone, color and natural beauty of the new skin.

It is not alone the convenience, or the freshness, or the crispness, or the unusual food-value, or the digestibility, or the cleanliness, or the price, that has made Unccda Biscuit the National Soda Cracker.

It is the remarkable combination of all of these things.

If everyone, everywhere, knew how good they are, everyone, everywhere, would eat them every day.

Sold by grocers in every city and town Bought by people of all classes.

Never sold in bulk always 5 cents in the moisture-proof package which keeps them oven-fresh.

FEUD BETWEEN FARMERS NEAR GREELEY RENEWED

GREELEY, Colo., Sept. 25.—After existing for several years, it is alleged, a neighborhood feud between the families of Frank Hatch and Will Johnson, prominent farmers of Pleasant Valley, broke out again yesterday afternoon, resulting in a serious wound in the head for J. Wood, Johnson's hired man. It is alleged that the wound was inflicted by a pitchfork in the hands of Hatch.

The two farmers live near to each other and each alleges that the other's poultry and stock trespassed. Yesterday afternoon Hatch's turkeys strayed into Johnson's yard. Hatch went to drive them home when the trouble between Mrs. Johnson and Hatch started and Hatch, it is alleged, took out his pocketknife to protect himself and Johnson ran for a club. In the meantime, the hired man with the wives and children of the farmers, arrived and took sides in the fracas.

The wounded man was brought to Greeley for medical attention. Johnson was notified to appear before the sheriff, which he has promised to do.

FILM EXPLOSION CAUSES PANIC IN PICTURE SHOW

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—More than 300 persons, many of them women and children, rushed panic-stricken from the Lyceum Nickel theater, West Madison street and Sacramento avenue, last night, when the moving picture films, in the cage above the entrance caught fire.

The screams of the women and children added to the confusion in the house. The people fought their way to the exits, trampling each other under foot in their terror. No one was seriously injured, aside from bruises sustained in climbing over chairs.

An Indian was giving a war dance on the stage at the time of the fire. Every now and then he let out a war whoop. He was the first to see the smoke issuing from the picture room and gave a loud yell of warning.

The next moment the smoke began to fill the house and the rush for the exits began.

FORMER WEATHER BUREAU HEAD SUFFERS RELAPSE

MORRIS PLAINS, N. J., Sept. 25.—That apparently on the road to recovery of his lost memory, Prof. Park W. Harrington, former head of the weather bureau, and a noted astronomer and college professor, has suffered a relapse into his old habit of forgetfulness of his own personality. It is announced at the New Jersey insane hospital here where he was sent in 1907 that until recently Professor Harrington responded to his name but that now he denies that he is Harrington, declaring he is John Doe, the name that was given him when he was admitted.

The professor no longer recognizes his wife and denies that he was ever married. He does, however, remember his classics, and is a constant reader of Virgil, Cicero and Pliny. Friends and relatives are greatly disappointed at his relapse. Professor Harrington disappeared from his home in Mount Vernon, N. Y., in 1893, and was not located until 1903, after he had been committed to the asylum. During that time his wanderings had taken him to China and back.

TO GET RID OF RHEUMATISM

If we suffer with Rheumatism and desire to get rid of it we must make up our minds to subject our systems to the proper course of treatment for a while. The only way to cure oneself of Rheumatism is to remove the cause, expel the irritating uric acid from the blood; every other method of treatment has proved a failure. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. This medicine goes down into the circulation and expels every particle of the sour, inflammatory uric acid which is the one great cause of the disease. The cure can be greatly hastened by a little care and self denial by the patient. In the first place do not let anything interfere to prevent your taking S. S. S. regularly and according to directions; be guarded in your eating, because an attack of indigestion will always aggravate the symptoms of Rheumatism. Do not expose yourself to damp and inclement weather any more than is necessary. When S. S. S. has had time to rid the blood of the uric acid, and strengthen the system, then these little restrictions can be left off. This simple course has cured many thousands of cases of Rheumatism. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free. S. S. S. is sold at drug stores.

COMMISSION GOVERNMENT DANGEROUS, SAYS PLUMBER

DENVER, Sept. 25.—National Organizer Clark of the Plumbers International union, before the members of the Denver Trades and Labor assembly yesterday spoke against the proposal by Denver to adopt the commission form of city government. Mr. Clark's address followed a speech in favor of the plan by John H. Gabriel, president of the Direct Legislation league. Mr. Clark characterized the commission form of government as being dangerous to the welfare of workingmen unless they could secure the control of the governmental machinery; otherwise they might find themselves the victims of a coterie of unscrupulous men.

RANCHMAN STRANGLES SELF

MT. MORRISON, Colo., Sept. 25.—George Hougham, a ranchman on South Turkey creek near Conifer, committed suicide by hanging. He was found on the ranch at the time, his wife having gone to Denver on a visit. She left on Thursday and returned last evening. Not finding her husband at the house she was horrified to discover him dead in the barn. The body was not suspended. Apparently he had slipped the rope over a beam and, kneeling, had strangled.

Hougham owned his ranch, was in good living circumstances, and his wife can give no reason for his act. He left no note. Governor Burton took charge of the body, but will not hold an inquest, as death was plainly due to his suicidal act.

SAGE AND SULPHUR CURES DANDRUFF

Restores Faded and Gray Hair to Natural Color. Itching Scalp Quickly Stopped.

This applies to Weth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, for if it does not do exactly what is claimed for it, the sales would naturally drop off. However, Weth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy does "make good," as evidenced by its daily increasing sales. Druggists say that this preparation gives the best satisfaction of any hair remedy ever sold. Weth's Sage and Sulphur is clean and wholesome—and perfectly harmless. It removes dandruff, strengthens the hair, gives new life to dull or parched hair, and gradually restores gray hair to natural color.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special agent, The Robinson Drug Co.

Though the day was threatening, a good crowd was out and betting apparently was as brisk as ever, notwithstanding no auction pools were held.

THE ATTRACTION

From the Washington Star. Representative Henry of Texas was condemning, at a banquet in Waco, those American belles who marry noblemen for their titles.

"There is no romance," he said, "there is no illusion, no glamour about such matches.

"An American countess, at a dinner party in Grosvenor square, had opposite her a dowager duchess. This wicked and cruel old dowager put her eyeglasses up to her eye and said:

"You American girls have such poor complexions, haven't you? You look so pasty beside our rose-leaf English maids. What do our noblemen find so attractive in your yellow faces?"

"The American countess, blinded by no illusion, laughed coldly.

"You see duchess," she said, "it's not our yellow faces that attract your noblemen, it's our greenbacks."

DETROIT AMERICANS

GAIN FIGHT POINTS

The leadership in the National league pennant race continued, with New York winning Monday; but, despite the fact that New York won its game with Cincinnati, Chicago gained one point. New York now leads, with a margin of 56 points. Chicago was scheduled to play a doubleheader with Boston, but wet grounds necessitated the postponement of one of the games.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Chicago defeated Boston today, 5 to 5. The deciding run was the result of Boston's lone error, a stolen base and a single. The rest of the runs made by the locals were the outcome of two bases on balls, a sacrifice and bunched hits.

Richie started to pitch for the locals, but his wildness resulted in two runs, one of which was forced home. Cole succeeded Richie and three singles and wild pitch gave the visitors two more runs. Another single and a base on balls resulted in Brown being called upon to pitch. Cy Young, the veteran pitcher, worked for Boston, pitching his first game on the west side grounds.

Two games were scheduled, but the first was called off on account of wet grounds.

THE UNLUCKY TWELVE

From the Los Angeles Examiner.

"Ever sit down to a table where there were just 12?" asked the man in the waiter.

"Once," replied the man with the fierce mustache.

"Well, you never observed that any bad luck followed it, did you?"

"Why—haw—yes. Bad luck for most of the 12."

"Any of them die?"

"Not that I know of. Never heard of any of them dying."

"Not enough victuals to go round?"

"Who's talking about victuals? There wasn't any victuals."

"I thought you said you sat down to a table where there were 12 persons?"

"That's what I said. The table was in a lawyer's office. It was a meeting of creditors. There were 12 of them. I was the other man."

There was a long pause, and then the man inquired:

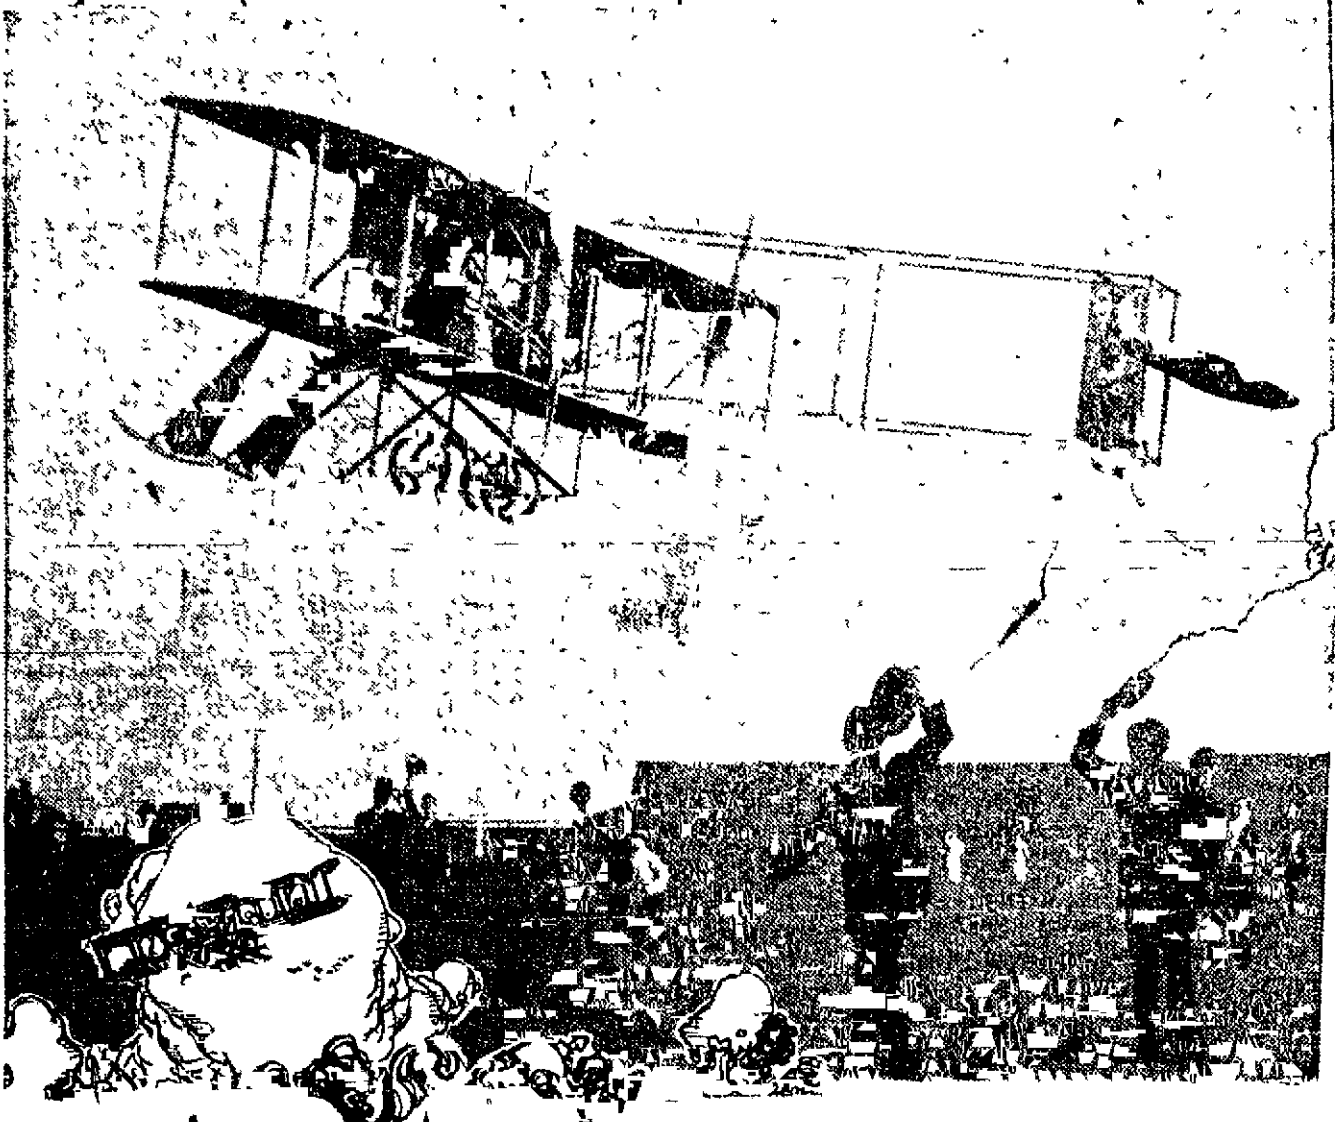

"In what way did the meeting prove unlucky, may I ask?"

"None of 'em ever got a shilling out of me," answered the man with the fierce mustache.

TOO MANY BOOKS THEN

From the Buffalo Commercial.

Barnaby Rich, in his preface to "A New Description of Ireland," published in 1600, writes: "One of the diseases of this age is the multitude of books, that doth so overcharge the world that it is not able to digest the abundance of idle matter that is every day hatched and brought into the world, that are as diverse in their forms as their authors be in their faces. It is but a thriftless and thankless occupation, this writing of books. A man were better to sit singing in a cobler's shop, for his pay is certainly a penny a patch. But a book writer if he gets sometimes a few commendations of the idle, he shall be sure to reap a thousand reproaches of the malicious."

Aviator Cal P. Rodgers, starting from Sheepshead bay, Long Island, on the $50,000 cross-continent flight to San Francisco. Just before leaving the ground, Rodgers sent a telegram to his rival Jimmy Ward, who was in Oswego, N. Y., waiting for repairs on his biplane before resuming the flight. Rodgers' message to Ward read: "Till see you by Tuesday"—meaning that he expected to overtake the other. There is a tremendous rivalry of a friendly nature between all the contestants in the great air race.

MAKING GOOD

There is no way of making lasting friends like "Making Good"; and Dr. Pierce's medicines well exemplify this, and their friends, after more than two decades of popularity are numbered by the hundreds of thousands. They have "made good" and they have not made drunkards. A good, honest square-deal medicine of known composition is

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It still enjoys an immense sale, while most of the preparations that have come into prominence in the earlier period of its popularity have "gone by the board" and are more heard of. There must be some reason for this long-time popularity and to be found in its superior merits. When one given a fair trial for weak stomach, or for liver and blood affections, its superior curative qualities are soon manifest; hence it has survived and grown in popular favor, while scores of less meritorious articles have suddenly flashed into favor for a brief period and then been as soon forgotten.

For a torpid liver with its attendant indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, perhaps dizziness, foul breath, nasty coated tongue, with bitter taste, loss of appetite, with distress after eating, nervousness and debility, nothing is as good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It's an honest, square-deal medicine with all its ingredients printed on bottle wrapper, no secret, no hocus-pocus humbug, therefore don't accept a substitute that the dealer may make a little bigger profit. Insist on your right to have what you call for. Don't buy

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Expecting it to prove a "cure-all." It is only advised for woman's special ailments.

It makes weak women strong, sick women will. Less advertised than some preparations sold for like purposes, its sterling curative virtues still maintain its position in the first ranks, where it stood over two decades ago.

As an invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve it is unequalled. It won't satisfy those who want "booze," for there is not a drop of alcohol in it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the original Little Liver Pills, although the first pill of their kind in the market, still lead, and when once tried are never after and in favor. Buy to save as usual.

CRIPPLE CREEK MINES

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Sept. 25.—A rich strike has been made on the Blue Jay, a fractional claim on Bull hill sandwiched in between the Blue Bird and Dante properties, that may result in costly litigation.

The Blue Jay is owned by Kets and Russell, who, operating from the Dante shaft by crosscut, have opened up the vein found near surface in the old Blue Jay workings. The vein dips out of the Blue Jay into the Blue Bird vein. The vein carries quartz characteristic of the Blue Bird ore and samples range from three to five ounces gold to the ton. Shipments will commence this week.

Modoc M. & Co.
A 20-ft. electrically driven compressor has been delivered at the Modoc Mining and Milling company's shaft on the Ocean View claim, in the saddle between Battle mountain and Bull hill. Machinery is at work setting up the big engine on its foundation. The company has big ore opened up in its deepest workings and will shortly resume sinking operations.

Gold Bond Consolidated.
Teams were seen at the Gold Bond Consolidated company's Gold hill properties this morning loading out ore from two shafts. The property is operated under the leasing system.

War Eagle Equipped.
An electric hoist will be installed this week on the War Eagle mine on Bull hill by the lease operators, Bernard & Porter. One of shipping grade has been developed. The property is controlled by the Stratton estate.

Mining Transfers.
The properties of the Kitty Gold Mining company, the Missouri placer containing 6,337 acres, the Katie Hollis containing 5,880 acres and that portion of the unexpected lode in conflict with the Katie Hollis, containing approximately 2,190 acres, were sold under judgment on Saturday last by the sheriff of Teller county to Hildreth Frost of Colorado Springs. The properties, located on Bull and Raven hills, are active under lease.

Patent Application.
Application for patent has been made by William Small of Boston, now residing in Colorado Springs, for the Blue Jay claim, Mr. Wandering Boy, Boston, and 2. Clincher and Blinder. These properties are situated on the Blue Jay claim.

Location in Bare Hills.
A location certificate for the Victor lode mining claim, in the Bare Hills mining district in Fremont county, has been filed here by W. Erickson and others. The locators are Crispie and Crispie miners sent to perform annual assays. The properties are under development by Boston capital.

NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The most extensive decline in stocks which Wall Street has known since the long downward movement began early last month, occurred today. The selling was not so much concentrated so largely on United States steel as during last week's upheaval, but extended through the entire active list. Prices gave way in every quarter and the losses of many of the leading issues ranged from 4 to 6 points. In the late trading the market developed pronounced strength, and stocks held almost as abruptly as they had declined. The effect of the session found losses greatly reduced.

The day began in comparative quiet, and although the market still showed signs of nervousness, the first hour witnessed no unusual fluctuations. Before noon, however, the selling increased to enormous proportions. Orders to sell flooded the market, which broke precipitately. Almost all the leading issues fell to new low points of the year. In the late trading the market developed pronounced strength, and stocks held almost as abruptly as they had declined. The effect of the session found losses greatly reduced.

CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Depression in the wheat market today came largely as a reflection of weakness in Wall Street and the close was 3/4 to 1/2 under Saturday night's figures. Lumber trading left off 3/4 to 1/2 under Saturday night's figures. Lumber trading left off 3/4 to 1/2 under Saturday night's figures.

Considerable liquidation developed among wheat holders, apparently, for the sole reason that stocks and cotton had taken a heavyish turn, but there were other reasons, which, at times, told heavily against values. The flattening out of fancy prices for wheat in the northwest operated against the bulls here, and it was a popular theory that the recent advance has been a little too rapid. Then there was no prospect of any export business, best bids being several cents below a working basis. Temporary rallies resulted from reports that northwestern mills were active buyers in Kansas, but the effect did not last. December ranged from 35 1/2 to 36 1/2, with final sales 35 1/2 net lower, or 35 1/2.

Corn weakened under selling on the part of discouraged longs. December fluctuated between 63 1/2 and 64 1/2, closing steady 1/2 down at 63 1/2. Cash grades were in good demand, No. 2 yellow finished at 58 1/2 to 59 1/2. A decline in the hog market carried down provisions. At the end of the day pork had dropped 20c and there was a falling off varying from 10c to 25c throughout the rest of the list. Quotations furnished by Ots & Hough.

A Bassinet for Baby

Baby deserves an attractive little home of his own. Don't put him in an unsightly clothes-basket. He should have a Bassinet, a strong, wicker basket of tasteful design, especially shaped for His Majesty.

It has little hoops on which to hang draperies, to protect Baby from flies, etc., and yet allow him plenty of room to breathe and wriggle.

We invite all mothers to come in and see how useful and how ornamental these beautiful Basinets are.

NOTE On Wednesday we will have something special in Meats. Watch our ad.
